Churchill Asks 'Real Good Try' With Russians

WASHINGTON (CP)—An "unbreakable unity of the English-speaking peoples is essential to the preservation of peace," Sir Winston Churchill declared here Monday.

He indicated to a wildly applauding luncheon audience that he believes that unity exists and will continue to exist.

The British prime minister, nearing the end of his talks with President Eisenhower, emphasized the necessity of "a real good try" to achieve peaceful co-existence with the Communist world.

The alternative was a terror that would "baffle the imagination," he said. He added that if conflict came it would leave the western world victorious but "victorious on a heap of ruins."

Earlier Churchill and President Eisenhower released a joint statement indicating their agreement to lay plans for course of action in Southeast Asia if the current efforts of the French government should fail to make peace in Indo-China.

In a joint statement the two leaders said they would "press forward with plans for collective defense" in Asia.

Churchill was asked at the press luncheon if that meant immediate action or action after the French government has succeeded or failed to make peace.

"Now, immediately," he replied. They will plan for either eventuality. The two leaders will meet again today and issue a more detailed statement.

Churchill made it plain, in keeping with previous policy, that Britain will decline to join any formal alliance until French Premier Pierre Mendes-France ends his present armistice talks with Communist representatives.

He also made it clear he still favors a Big Three meeting with Russia's Prime Minister Malenkov. But, he cautioned: "To meet without good occasion, without some hope of definite amelioration of the world situation, might worsen and sharpen tensions."

CHURCHILL OF OLD

It was a triumph for Churchill. He was like the Churchill of the wartime meetings in Quebec and here. His voice was clear and powerful. He was brimming with good humor and wit. He was visibly touched by the standing ovations which greeted him and bade him farewell.

From the luncheon Churchill went with Foreign Secretary Eden to the British embassy, where they were guests of Ambassador Sir Roger Makins until they left by air for Ottawa Monday afternoon.

Leaders Show Unity

Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and President Eisenhower, shown at their meetings in Washington, will issue a detailed statement today on decisions reached in their highest-level efforts to mend tattered diplomacy between the chief nations of the English-speaking world. French Pleased

PARIS (Reuters) — French Premier Pierre Mendes-France Monday night greeted the Eisenhower-Churchill conference communique from Washington with "much satisfaction."

The communique also was greeted with enthusiasm in several other European capitals but was expected to chafe further an already impatient West Germany.

On 'Go Slow' Policy

Churchill Victory in U.S. Seen by London Papers

LONDON (AP)—All but one of London's morning newspapers told their readers Monday that Prime Minister Churchill is winning U.S. approval for Britain's go-slow policy in Southeast Asia.

The Times, in its account of the Washington talks, said that "even now agreement seems no nearer."

But headlines in other morning papers left a different impression. The Daily Mirror said: "Churchill and Eden putting the brake on Ike."

NO RUSH

The Mirror's Washington correspondent said flatly:

"There will be no rush into united action in Southeast Asia and there will be no immediate Southeast Asia alliance of the Western powers—on the lines of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, NATO—as America wished . . .

"The Anglo-American policy in Southeast Asia now will be 'wait and see'—but at the same time both governments will maintain a state of 'vigilant preparedness'."

CHURCHILL PRAISED

The Daily Sketch carried a similar story under this headline: "Winston does it! Ike agrees with his plan."

"Churchill firm with Ike. No yielding on East," said The Daily Herald.

The Communist Daily Worker headline: "U.S. bows to Churchill on Far East."

The News Chronicle said: "On Germany agreement is certain. On Asia, views are tending to converge and agreement is within sight."

Alpinists on Wrong Track

No Buttle Change, Chairman Claims

British Columbia Power Commission Chairman T. H. Crosby yesterday denied a report that the commission had abandoned the Buttle Lake project.

A report from Duncan said a party of alpinists hiking in the vicinity found that the government had abandoned Buttle and instead would dam Upper Campbell and join the two together as one storage basin.

Mr. Crosby said the review of the whole situation was still proceeding. The survey below Upper Campbell was reported in the Colonist six weeks ago.

The Duncan party said residents of the area of Upper Campbell had been given notice to vacate and showed stakes defining the new dam site to the party surveyors.

NEW SURVEY

Power commission officials admitted some weeks ago that the new survey was taking place with a view to a possible new generating plant below Upper Campbell. They did not deny at the time that the Buttle project might be abandoned or, at any rate, changed considerably.

Tremendous upsurge in power needs on the Island has forced the commission to consider new power sources and might mean a possible change in plans.

Mr. Crosby said an announcement on what the plans will be can be expected in about a month.

Planes Attack Capital

Rebels Demanding Junta's Surrender

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Rebel leader Col. Carlos Castillo Armas Monday night demanded the "unconditional surrender" of the new military junta ruling Guatemala, and rebel planes lashed out with their first attack on the capital since the new regime took over.

In a manifesto issued from his provisional capital at Chiquimula, the anti-Communist leader said leftist president Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's resignation Sunday night was simply a "desperate manoeuvre."

The action of Col. Carlos Diaz and a military junta in taking over the government and in outlawing the Communist party, he added, had changed nothing in the party leadership and the party line.

"We will accept nothing short of unconditional surrender despite the changes," he declared.

NOT PLEASED

Although the rebels had called for a military junta to oust Arbenz and his regime and then negotiate a truce with Castillo Armas' newly-proclaimed provisional government, it was evident the rebels were not pleased with the turn of events in the capital.

The rebels feared that after cracking down on the Communists, Diaz would try to retain power himself, thus pulling the props out from under the campaign which Castillo Armas has waged largely on an anti-Communist basis.

JACOBO ARBENZ GUZMAN

First reports quoted the Guatemalan government radio as saying 12 planes bombarded the capital less than 24 hours after Colonel Diaz and the junta had replaced Arbenz.

Arbenz was reported flying to exile in Argentina.

Other listeners to the Guatemalan broadcast, however, understood that only one or two planes attacked with bombs and machine-guns.

Nehru, Chou Cite Five Principles

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The prime ministers of India and Communist China Monday recommended adoption of five principles in international affairs as "a solid foundation for peace and security."

They said they hope to see these principles used in particular to bring a political settlement in Indo-China creating "free democratic, unified and independent states which should not be used for aggressive purposes or be subjected to foreign intervention."

The five principles are:

Mutual respect for territorial integrity and sovereignty, non-aggression, non-interference in each other's internal affairs, equality and mutual benefit, and peaceful co-existence.

These principles originally formed the preamble of the Chinese-Indian treaty on Tibet signed in April this year.

Mutual support for the principles formed the basis of a communique issued here soon after Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China left for Rangoon at the end of three-day talks with Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India. In Rangoon Chou will talk with Premier U Nu of Burma.

Some observers here expect a series of non-aggression pacts between Asian countries.

First Commercial Well Gushes

'B.C. Is in the Oil Business!' Pleased Premier Announces

Discovery of the first commercial oil in British Columbia, 45 miles northwest of Fort St. John in the Peace River area, was announced yesterday.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett informed the press of the history-making strike a few minutes after he received a phone call from George McMahon of Calgary, head of Pacific Petroleums.

"B.C. is in the oil business," the premier said, obviously pleased with the news which may help to offset the disappointment B.C. felt at rejection of an application to pipe Peace River gas to the U.S.

"That's what we wanted," he said. "The government hopes it will prove to be a major field."

Contact was made at Pacific West Buick Creek No. 3, a Pacific Petroleum well. The discovery was made in the oil-bearing Nikanassin sands formation, reported to be about 28 feet through.

The premier was told that the oil is of a good quality, with a gravity of 35-37.

The find may be a boon to the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway which plans to build a $50,000,000 extension to Fort St. John.

Action by City Council Could End Strike at Once

Arbitration Agreed But Mayor Hedges

BY LAWRIE JOSLIN

Swift and decisive action by city council could end the 12-day-old tie-up of essential civic services within a matter of hours.

City officials were notified yesterday by union officers that striking outside workers are ready to return to work immediately and settle their wage dispute with city council by arbitration under the Labor Relations Act.

The mayor is understood to have blocked immediate action along these lines by proposing instead that arbitration be conducted under the Arbitration Act.

Only council can remedy the situation now and an emergency session is expected today or tomorrow.

SET TERMS

The union membership voted Sunday night to return to work immediately council agrees to put the wage dispute to arbitration under the Labor Relations Act. The vote came after a special meeting of council on Friday asked the union to agree to arbitration.

Union officers met City Manager Cecil Wyatt for about an hour yesterday morning before going in for a session with the mayor which lasted about 90 minutes.

It was apparently during the second meeting that the obstacle was put in the way of an immediate end to the tie-up.

LABOR MATTER

The union is prepared to have the dispute arbitrated by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks or someone appointed by him.

It wants any award of the arbitration incorporated into a new collective agreement for this year and made effective within 30 days of the date that it is handed down.

The union asks that both parties agree in advance to make any award of an arbitrator binding on council and the union.

The union formally advised the city yesterday by letter of the decision of its members.

The letter said that if council agrees to the union proposal on arbitration, the outside workers will go back to work immediately.

ASK TO ATTEND

The union has asked council for permission to send two representatives to the council meeting dealing with the arbitration issue.

Council was not specific about its arbitration proposal when it met Friday. It simply asked the union to agree to arbitration which would be binding on both sides and nothing was said about what statute was to be used.

The Labor Relations Act empowers the labor minister to appoint inquiry commissions to settle disputes. The same provisions were contained in the old Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act and were used on previous occasions when there appeared to be no other means of settling a strike.

ALL DISPUTES

The Arbitration Act is more formal in its provisions and is designed to settle all classes of disputes, not necessarily labor disputes.

Union officials have said they have complied with all provisions of the old labor code and the new Labor Relations Act since their dispute with the city started. They prefer to see the dispute settled with the machinery available in the labor code, since it is purely a labor matter and the union a labor body certified under the labor code.

Young Cyclist Killed

FULFORD HARBOR—Twelve-year-old cyclist George Baffett was instantly killed at 11 a.m. yesterday when he collided with a gravel truck on Salt Spring Island's Fulford-Ganges highway.

RCMP said the youngster was following a road grader when he swung out and met the truck, driven by Vern Schneider of Sidney.

George was living at Fulford Harbor with his mother and step-father, Ronald Lee.

Flood Kills Eight

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP)—The Rio Grande gorged itself on a foot of rain and thundered seaward Monday in its greatest flood in history.

Eight people were reported dead at inundated Ozona in the north ranch country.

The Rio Grande flood itself was not expected to take any lives, because river-wise dwellers knew what was coming and got to high ground. The Mexican town of Ciudad Acuna across from Del Rio was evacuated safely.

PASSENGERS SAFE

Rescue helicopters shuttled the 60 miles from Langtry to Del Rio, bringing out the last of 266 passsengers of Southern Pacific's Sunset Limited stranded Sunday by track washouts.

Fourteen helicopters brought them to Del Rio where they continued by train to their destinations.

The weather bureau at Brownsville said there is nothing on the records to compare with this flood—and the only comparison forecasters could make would be with legends about a great flood in 1835.

Liquor Polls Open

Eighteen polling centres will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. today as Saanich and Central Saanich voters decide whether their municipalities will become "wet."

Each is a separate licensing area. The ratepayers will vote on accepting or rejecting public house licenses, dining room licenses for beer, ale, stout and wine with meals; dining lounge licenses (cabarets and clubs); and lounge licenses (cocktail bars).

Writer Wins $175,000 Suit

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal court jury awarded author Quentin Reynolds $175,000 damages in his libel suit against newspaper columnist Westbrook Pegler and two Hearst corporations.

The decision came early today after the jury had deliberated more than 10 hours. Although the amount was well below the $500,000 which Reynolds had sought, it was believed to be one of the largest—and possibly the largest—libel award ever made in the United States.

Debt-Ridden Miner Uses Gas

Pay Packet of Penny Brings Death to Five

CANTERBURY, England (CP)—A debt-ridden coal miner murdered his wife and three children and then killed himself after he was given his pay envelope—which contained one penny—an inquest learned Monday.

The bodies of Frederick Richardson, 40, his wife, Violet, 29, and his children, David, 10, Anne, 7, and Joan, 6, all dead of gas poisoning, were found by police who broke in Friday night.

In the house they found the pay envelope, the coroner said Monday, which showed a total salary of $3.61. Deductions left only the penny.

The envelope was for a week in which Richardson had worked only one day and received one-sixth of his normal weekly pay of $21.70. Deducted from this was a bill owned to the coal mine canteen, payment for a pair of boots, and the miner's regular payment to the national medical service.

The miner wrote that he had been given until the next day to raise $100. He added that he had taken the children's lives so they should not be left with the stigma of being a suicide's children.

Another letter said: "Please put the cat and dog to sleep, too. I found them awkward."

For Youngsters at Elk Lake

Deadline Fast Draws Near For Free Swimming Classes

There are only two days left for children to be entered in The Daily Colonist swimming classes which begin at Elk Lake next Monday.

The application coupon appears on this page today and will appear again tomorrow. Applications mailed later than Wednesday will not be accepted because classes have to be made up Friday morning, immediately after the July 1 holiday.

The swimming classes are open to children between the ages of eight and 14. They are free, but there is a transportation charge of $2.50 for youngsters unable to provide their own transportation to Elk Lake. The $2.50 covers one trip a week for eight weeks from the Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot to the lake and return.

400 LAST YEAR

Instructor for the Colonist's swimming classes is Mrs. Marjorie Naysmith, who teaches for Archie McKinnon at the YMCA and for the Greater Victoria School Board. Under her guidance and the supervision of a lifeguard, each child will receive eight lessons—one a week until the end of August.

Last year, in the same classes, Mrs. Naysmith taught 400 children to swim.

Each child registering will be assigned a class to be held at specified time on the same day each week. A complete list of all the classes, their age groups, sex, and the name of the child assigned to them, will be printed in the Colonist Sunday.

It will be necessary for parents to consult list to find what class their child is in, and instructions as to the time he or she should report either at the coach lines depot or at the lake.

The purpose of the swimming classes is to teach children to swim as early as possible in life.

"There is an appalling number of drownings every summer," said Seth Halton, publisher of the Colonist. "We believe, as do the schools now, the Red Cross, the YMCA and others, that if all children could be taught to swim the drownings would be greatly reduced.

CHANCE FOR RESCUE

"Last year," he said, "Mrs. Naysmith taught 400. They couldn't be called first-class swimmers by the time they'd finished the course, but at least, in the event of accident, they could swim around long enough for rescuers to have a chance."

Saanich Faces One-Third Cut In Berry Crop

Saanich Peninsula berry production this year is expected to be one-third lower than in 1953, farm officials said yesterday.

The federal-provincial farm labor service has temporarily suspended registration of berry pickers. It has placed about 200 workers, including 145 women. The service has about 560 persons registered for berry picking.

Registrations will continue for other types of farm labor.

Frosts in the winter and spring and current damp and cool nights, are blamed by growers for the production drop.

SHIPMENTS DOWN

Saanich Fruit Growers' Association said yesterday the crop is not expected to compare with last year, when 35 freight carloads were shipped to Prairie points. Until yesterday this year's shipments totaled 14 cars.

The pack is expected to continue two to three weeks, although in latter stages it will be confined to the jam pack. Majority of berries received the fresh pack.

now are still being used for

Cold weather early this month prevented ripening of the strawberry crop and made the season late. Some berries have failed to develop and others have succumbed to mold.

Strawberry prices on retail markets are now about 30 cents a hallock and two for 55 cents, expected to be the low point.

No Worries Whatever

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A recent Scottish immigrant to Canada shouted "bingo" the other night and the echoes carried all the way to his Glasgow home.

Bill Young, 42, of Windsor, won a new car. He plans to sell it and bring his wife and three children to Canada. He is a pattern maker.

"I liked Canada from the very first day," he said. ". . . All a man has to do in this country is win a new car every now and then and he hasn't a thing to worry about."

New president of the B.C. aerie of the Fraternal Order of Eagles is Dave Essler of Victoria. He was elected to the post at the recent provincial convention at Nelson. Next year Victoria will be host city to the convention.

New Vessel Has Freight Plus Luxury

A ship with "something different" for passengers will reach Victoria sometime in September during her maiden voyage.

She is the 506-foot Loch Gowan of the Royal Mail Line and she'll be joining the Loch Haven and Loch Garth on the company's North Pacific service, which links London with B.C. Ports.

The Loch Gowan, known as a "luxury freighter," has top-notch accommodation for 12 passengers, according to a spokesman for George Paulin, Ltd., agents.

Included is a built-in swimming pool, described as "very unusual," since most similar vessels on the trade routes of the world have canvas tanks, at best.

The passengers will be able to swim whenever they tire of looking at the scenery, which includes the Caribbean, the Panama Canal and the Gulf of Mexico.

The trip from London takes five weeks and is aimed at people who feel that "leisure is more important than speed."

CHAPTER III (Continued)

"Stanhope went out on the lake for a cruise in his boat early this morning. We don't know exactly what happened, but, by an odd fluke, the boat idled back to Chicago and we found his body. He had been beaten on the head—murdered."

"Murdered!" the girl gasped. "Oh, no!"

"It's shocking," Dime agreed, "but it's true. So far, we have very little to work on. Do you know if Stanhope had any enemies?"

Marie shook her head. "Of course not. Everyone liked him. He was so generous!"

"I can believe that," Dime said pointedly, eying a large diamond which sparkled on her left hand. "Didn't Stanhope ever mention being afraid of anyone—or of anyone hating him?"

"No."

"Have you any idea how Stanhope made his money, Miss Ronelle?"

"Why—he was a lawyer!" Subtly, the girl's eyes darkened became remote and wary.

And Dime declared, "He was a lawyer, but his practice was almost non-existent. He had another source of income. You can make things a lot easier for me—and for yourself, Miss Ronelle—if you'll help me."

"What good will it do me?" the girl demanded, her tone suddenly fierce and bitter. "He's dead, isn't he? What am I supposed to do now? Why, this apartment, which he insisted I take, cost more than—" She caught herself, bit her lip.

"The rent is more per month than you earn," Dime finished for her. "Is that what you meant to say?"

The girl nodded. "It's true," she whispered. "I knew it was foolish. But he said it wasn't dangerous. He said that after one or two more trips, he'd quit . . . and we'd go away . . . and—" The girl began to sob again.

Dime waited patiently, then asked: "What was the purpose of his trips, Misss Ronelle? I knew there was something odd about them, of course."

Blinking away tears, the girl said in a hard voice: "Sometime this week, he was to pick up $200,000 in jewels. He'd done it several times before. That's where his money came from. I asked him once, and he told me. He had a contact in Canada, who met him some place on the lake. He said the Coast Guard never bothered small yachtsmen and he'd never have any trouble, because all he had to do was bring them in and turn them over to a dealer."

Dime whistled. "Two hundred grand in jewels!" he exclaimed. "Have you any idea where the pickup was to be made?"

"No. It was always in a different place. I know it was a long cruise, though, for it usually took several days. He used to say he earned every cent of his cut."

"You never made the trip with him?"

"I don't like the water. I get seasick. Besides, he had to make the trip alone. That was one of the rules."

"Are you sure?" Dime asked sharply.

"Yes. Why?"

"Because, on this trip, Stanhope's wife was with him," Dime told her, watching her face as he did so. "She was strangled to death."

The girl's eyes stared into his. Emotion drained from her face, then her cheeks began to color slightly. "You tricked me!" she accused. "You didn't tell me about her at first!"

"I didn't think you'd be interested in Mrs. Stanhope's decease," Dime said.

"Where is he? What have you done with him?" The girl [illegible] the words tumbling from her red lips. "I want to see him!"

"Sure thing," Dime agreed, puzzled by the change in her. "Put some clothes on and I'll take you to the morgue."

During the trip, she huddled in one corner of the black police sedan like a little child. When Dime halted the car in front of the morgue, however, she opened the door and climbed out, standing straight and thin on the sidewalk, with her jaw squared determinedly.

"Follow me," Dime said shortly.

She nodded, and, matching his long stride, followed him into the tall stone building. Dime spoke to an attendant, who led them downstairs to a cool, vaulted chamber which smelled of iodoform and formaldehyde. From a wall which resembled a huge filing cabinet, the attendant pulled a long tray, on which a cloth-covered body rested.

"This is Stanhope," the attendant said, pulling back the cloth from the man's face.

Miss Ronelle gasped and covered her red mouth with one hand. Her eyes bored into the white, mask-like face. Inching closer, as though willing herself to do so, her [illegible] touched the straight blonde hair and brushed it gently back from his forehead. With a sob, she began to tug at the cloth which still covered the rest of the body. Pulling it away until his chest and arms were exposed, she grabbed his right hand and began smoothing it with her fingers, lovingly, searchingly.

"It's him," she said finally. "Now I know. Thank you." Then, as the attendant replaced the cloth over the body, she said in a curious tone: "I never met his wife. Is she here, too?"

"Yes," Dime said. "Would you like to see her?"

"Please."

The attendant shrugged, pushed Stanhope's body back into the refrigerated compartment, and pulled forth another tray.

Roots of Glads Key to Culture

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In order to understand how to care for your gladiolus through the summer, it is perhaps a good idea to consider the rather unusual method of root formation of this plant, for this has a very decided bearing on the treatment they should have.

At planting time, if you have a look at the base of a gladiolus bulb, you will see a lot of little white pustules around the root scar. These are the embryo roots, and very soon after planting the corm, these roots push out into the surrounding soil. Actually, the function of this first set of roots is more of anchorage than of providing food to the top growth, for the plant is living at this stage principally upon the nutrients stored in the corm, in much the same way as the early growth of a potato plant.

NEW SYSTEM

In the summer or early autumn, just before the flower spike can be felt within the sheath of leaves, a new and quite different root system starts to form, this time not from the bottom of the corm you planted, but from its top, just at the base of the new growth. While the first roots were rather thready and fribrous, these new roots are thicker and more fleshy.

They grow at a very rapid rate, and they are hungry brutes, searching over a wide area for food and plunging deeply for moisture.

These secondary roots perform several very important functions. First, they must take over the job of supplying food and moisture to the plant, for the nutrients in the old bulb will be exhausted by this time. That is why it is so desirable to incorporate plenty of good stuff in the gladiolus bed before planting time.

The second function is to provide additional anchorage at a time when it is very badly needed, with the top growth growing tall and the flower spike shooting away up. If you want to grow gladiolus without staking, therefore, the manure or compost used in preparing the site should be very well mixed with the soil. To provide the best anchorage against the wind, these roots should be encouraged to spread widely and to plunge away down for their fare—you don't want them pausing to exploit any lumps of goodness in the soil.

By the same token, any water you give your plants should be allowed to penetrate away down deep. Glads use a lot of water at this stage in their growth, but you don't want these anchor roots hanging around just under the surface waiting for their daily driblets. That is why I grow my glads in trenches—so they can be flooded with the hose.

LIKE FERTILIZER

Glads respond well at this stage, too, to an occasional supplementary feed of soluble fertilizer in the water. Use the high-test, instantly soluble kinds at the rate of one tablespoonful to a gallon, and about a quart to a plant.

The final function of the secondary roots is to feed and plump up the new bulb for nex year's flowers. They work in close co-operation with the leaves on this job so it is important in cutting the flower spike to leave as much foliage on the plant as possible. Don't neglect the plants after the flower spikes have been cut, but keep up the feeding and watering until about 10 days before the bulbs are lifted.

Tomb Found Empty

CAIRO (Reuters)—The greatest archaeological bubble of the century was burst Sunday when it was found that the recently-discovered Sakhaha sarcophagus was just on empty coffin.

Dr. Zakkaria Goneim, who discovered the rose alabaster sarcophagus a month ago, expected it to contain the treasure-be-decked mummy of a pharoah who lived 4,700 years ago.

Sunday, his employers, the Egyptian department of antiquities, announced that the sarcophagus, located in an unfinished stepped pyramid 15 miles southeast of here, was opened Sunday and found "completely empty."

"It is believed the body of the king was buried in some other place," the announcement added.

Dr. Mustapha Amor, director-general of the antiquities department, said:

"We decided to examine the sarcophagus prior to the official opening which was planned for next week.

"We hoisted the heavy frontal panel of the sarcophagus up a little by means of a block and tackle, and peered inside the tomb.

"It was empty. There was a moment of hushed silence. It was a great disappointment to all of us, I cannot deny that, but we must expect these things."

U.K. Greets Trade Group From China

LONDON (UP) — Britain opened an active campaign to boost trade with Communist China today by welcoming a delegation of Red economists here for a fact-finding tour.

Seven trade experts and an interpreter flew in from Geneva, where the talks that led to the visit were carried out.

British business men will show the group around British factories and discuss ways and means of increasing trade for two weeks.

All quarters were careful to point out that the delegation was a trade group, not a diplomatic body. The visit was arranged by a British business man's committee, and not the British government.

A British trade delegation will visit Communist China later as the next step toward increasing trade — non-strategic trade within the limits of United Nations restrictions.

Gala Events Due on Island During Holiday

Canada's 87th birthday—Dominion Day, on Thursday—will be the reason for big celebrations in seven Vancouver Island and Gulf Islands' centres, but only a few events are scheduled in Victoria.

The big item in the city is the special ceremony scheduled for 11 a.m. in Beacon Hill Park by the Canada Day committee of the Greater Victoria Citizenship Council.

The bandshell will be the scene of the eighth annual "I Am a Canadian Day," with the theme aimed at making people "feel a greater pride in their Canadian citizenship."

SALUTE PLANNED

Education Minister Ray Williston will speak and there will be a pageant and a brief ceremony in which young Canadians will take the oath of allegiance.

Elsewhere in Victoria, the army will fire a 21-gun salute at noon from the saluting base at Work Point barracks and the navy will dress its ships with bunting. Included will be the cruiser Ontario and four other vessels in Esquimalt and three ships at Bedwell Harbor.

Frank Hunter, president of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, said yesterday the association had hoped to "do something" about Dominion Day, but found it impossible due to the lack of funds.

Plans, made years ago, were to tackle other days one by one after May 24, as finances permitted. But Mr. Hunter said there's "no prospect" of that now because last year's $6,000 profit dwindled to $2,000 this year.

MUSEUM OPEN

All provincial government offices, the city hall and almost all businesses will be closed Thursday, but the provincial museum will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

In Sidney, Dominion Day begins with a parade starting along Third Street and going by Sidney Avenue, Second Street, Beacon Avenue, Fifth Street and Oakland Avenue to Memorial Park.

Queen Barbara Wilkinson will reign over the parade, which includes the Victoria Chinese Girls' drill team, Chinese dancers, Eagles' drill team, Scottish pipe band, Colwood Trail Riders, army units and firemen.

Afternoon events at the Memorial Park include fire fighting displays, tug-of-war, a horse show, baseball and a contest for the oldest man and woman at the event. There'll be a midway all day, and wrestling matches in the evening.

INDIAN CELEBRATION

The biggest Island celebration, at Duncan, will be topped by afternoon and evening performances by Doug Hepburn of Vancouver, the world's strongest man. Other events are loggers' sports, a stage revue, a four-hour horse show and dancing on the agricultural fair grounds and outdoor stage.

Ladysmith will combine Dominion Day events with its Golden Jubilee celebration, starting with the crowning of Lorna de Clark tomorrow night as Jubilee queen.

A parade Thursday will include the drum and bugle band of Victoria's Rainbow Sea Cadets and the Nanaimo concert and pipe bands. Other events are loggers' sports, children's sports, a professional stage show, a motorcycle rodeo by the Victoria Motorcycle Club and a reception for senior citizens.

LAMB BARBECUE

At least 12 lambs will be barbecued by Jim Cruikshank in the main event at Saturna Beach, Saturna Island.

Seven piglets are available in a diaper-pinning contest, while other items are a tug-of-war, children's sports and a midway. The children's sports start the day at 11 a.m., with the barbecue at 2.30 p.m.

The annual soap box derby will top celebrations in Port Alberni, while the four-day annual Courtenay baseball tournament will open Thursday, with teams from Courtenay, Victoria, Parksville, Comox, Nanaimo, Chemainus, Campbell River and Powell River.

Tofino and Ucluelet have scheduled children's sports, baseball and a grand ball at night.

Heiress Wounded At Track

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—An attractive steamship heiress was wounded Monday as her estranged husband fired wildly among the paddock crowd awaiting the start of [illegible] Park.

An owner-trainer who came to her aid was grazed by a bullet and the horse he had been saddling was struck by a ricocheting bullet.

The human victims of the bizarre shooting were Mrs. Andrea Luckenbach Hamner, 33, and Woodrow W. Long. The horse slightly hurt was Now Hear This, a two-year-old colt Mrs. Hamner leased to Long.

CHARGE LAID

State police said the blond heiress' estranged third husband, Fred Hamner, 45, was later charged at a hearing with two counts of assault with intent to kill and a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Hamner, a onetime assistant starter at various tracks was held in $10,500 bail. Mrs. Hamner was taken to Delaware Hospital. Doctors said she had been struck by one bullet in the right chest and in the left hip by another. Her condition was described as satisfactory.

Now Hear This was removed from the race because the horse was believed too excited to run Monday.

Writer Libeled, Judge Decides

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal judge—held Monday that author Quentin Reynolds was clearly libeled in a 1949 column by Westbrook Pegler, Hearst columnist. The jury was told to fix damages.

Judge Edward Weinfeld's ruling came at the close of a bitter seven-week trial, the first to which Pegler has been subjected during nearly 40 years as a hard-hitting, no-holds-barred newspaper man.

Pegler claims he has never been assessed a penny even in out-of-court settlements of previous libel cases.

COST FORTUNE

Reynolds asked $500,000 in damages, in the most celebrated U.S. newspaper feud in years. He claimed the column cost him a fortune in the magazine and entertainment fields.

Defendants with Pegler were the Hearst Corporation, which distributes his column to 186 newspapers, and Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., which publishes Pegler's local outlet, the New York Journal-American.

The jury of four women and eight men began deliberations after Judge Weinfeld told them:

That column, read in its entirety, is, as a matter of law, I tell you, defamatory."

Except for his reputation, Pegler had no direct stake in the verdict. It was learned that under his contract, the Hearst newspaper organization must foot any bill for libel damages.

In his column Pegler jumped on Reynolds' Second World War career as a foreign correspondent for Collier's Magazine. He called Reynolds "yellow" and an "absentee war correspondent."

In his denial of the allegations, Reynolds accused Pegler also of picturing him as pro-Communist, a nudist and a suitor who proposed to a widow at her husband's funeral.

Unity of Europe Shakier Than Any Time Since War

PARIS (AP)—The European army and dreams of step-by-step integration of Western Europe are nearer death now than at any time since the war.

But the necessity which inspired the European army—the rearmament of West Germany—may be nearer to realization.

This is the situation:

Pierre Mendes-France, the new French premier, says some changes will have to be made in the European Defense Community treaty as it now stands.

The nations which have already ratified EDC—Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg and West Germany—are opposed to treaty changes. They have no basis for confidence at some later date France would accept a modified treaty.

France asked for postponement of a six-power EDC meeting scheduled for next week in Brussels.

Mendes-France has promised to resign if he has not achieved an end to the fighting by July 20.

If he should go, the succeeding government might be more friendly to EDC. But the Communists can make important concessions to get a peace in many; the only dispute is on Indo-China, and keep Mendes-France in office.

He has given no hint of what methods he might have in mind.

Mendes-France says there is necessity to rearm Germany.

Little Girl Lost Survives Ordeal

MARKLEEVILLE, Calif. (AP)—A mongrel dog barked furiously Sunday and a little girl stepped out of the dense forest where she had been lost two freezing nights and days in the high Sierra.

And that was the way they found five-year-old Kathy Paxton, for whom 500 men had been searching since she wandered away from her family's camp at Woods Lake Friday evening.

"Are you Kathy?" asked Van Dell, owner of the dog, when the tot stepped out on the trail.

"Yes, and I'm tired," she replied with a wan smile.

But she was in amazingly good condition, for all her frightening experience. Except for a black eye and a broken tooth, incurred in a fall, the doctors who examined her could find no injuries.

And she had been wandering aimlessly through this 8,500-foot elevation mountain wilderness, with temperatures tumbling to 34 degrees each of the two nights she was lost, almost within shouting distance of camp.

Bluebottle Beaten Again

TORONTO (CP)—Bluebottle, the dragon-class royal yacht, suffered her third consecutive Toronto defeat Saturday in the Royal Canadian Yacht Club's open regatta.

The yacht, owned by Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh, finished third over the Lake Ontario course of nearly five miles. The 12-yacht race was won by Okolina, owned by Dr. Davidson Black and Dr. Keith MacDonald.

Stormy, which defeated Bluebottle in the first two races here, finished second.

Experts' Chances Better Than 50-50 To Glimpse Rare, Total Solar Eclipse

SMOKY FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Canada's most northerly expedition sounding out the mysteries of Wednesday's solar eclipse is keeping its fingers crossed.

There's better than a 50-50 chance that it, and other northern teams of star-gazers in the 4,000-mile-an-hour northeast sweep of the sun's shadow, won't even see the sun.

Dr. Jack Locke, solar specialist with the Dominion observatory in Ottawa, said Monday he thinks the chances are somewhere between one to two and one to three for getting a good photographic crack at the eclipse in the few seconds that astronomers will be able to work at it.

In Toronto, weather officials said the outlook for the northern area is "not too good." A storm over the Prairies is moving eastward and might hit the area late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

JUST 90 SECONDS

At this point just 100 miles south of James Bay, a team from the Dominion observatory in Ottawa will have 90 seconds of totality—the time in which the moon obscures the sun's face starting shortly after 7.11 a.m. (EDT).

Three Canadian groups in roughly a straight line through the centre of the eclipse path—at Hansen, Mattice and here—will be checking their readings.

Main objective of the Canadian astrophysicists is to try to pin down the temperature of the sun's outer layer. Readings up to now have wobbled between 6,000 and 35,000 degrees.

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Winnipeg Tribune says Monday unconfirmed reports indicate the MacDonald Aircraft Company here may be sold shortly to the Bristol Aeroplane Co. for about $2,500,000. In 1945, the plant employed 4,000 and had one of the biggest production and assembly lines in western Canada.

Company officials were not available for comment on the report.

Island Paradise But Sneeze Taboo

LONDON (Reuters) — A South Sea Island paradise where there's little work, plenty of food, no need for money — and the greatest worry was a chance sneeze that might mean banishment.

That's how John D. Bradley, 33-year-old British entymologist, and his 22-year-old wife Diana think of Rennell Island in the Solomons. Their recent two-month idyll there combined all the best elements of a remote honeymoon and a scientific expedition.

Just married, the couple were sent by the British Museum to collect bird and insect specimens on an eight-mile stretch of land scarcely touched by civilization and barred to all white persons for the last 20 years. The regulation was imposed by the British Solomons protectorate because of the natives' extreme susceptibility to foreign diseases.

"The islanders know no such thing as a cold or influenza," said Bradley, "and an ordinary cold could spread like wildfire and create great havoc."

World's Food Problem

AFTER an exhaustive examination of population trends, the United Nations Department of Social Affairs has produced a sobering analysis of what may turn out to be the world's major problem in the not-distant future: that of feeding its population. Available statistics show the present population of the world to be about 2,500,000,000. It is expanding at the rate of 30,000,000—or about twice the total population of the whole of Canada—each year. If present tendencies continue the total will approach 4,000,000,000 within the lifetime even of those now entering middle age. The problem therefore is by no means as remote as might be believed.

A world population of 4,000,000,000 within the next 30 years is, of course, merely an estimate. It may prove to be short of the mark if modern public health and sanitation services continue to advance at the rate shown in recent years. It is the spectacular success of these sciences which accentuates the problem of those concerned with the economics of the situation. At present the increase in population is not being matched by a proportionate increase in the production of food and other necessities of life.

The United Nations survey points out that this is due chiefly to the fact that economic and social conditions differ widely in different parts of the world. The distribution of population is uneven in relation to the means of production, and present trends are not improving the balance. On the contrary the growth of population is accelerating fastest in those regions least able to take care of the increase because of economic handicaps of various kinds.

Results of the study made by the UN Department of Social Affairs rule out mass emigration as an effective solution. Instead they tend to show that the real solution, in which every nation has a stake, lies in improving the production of the under-developed countries themselves. Some progress is being made under such projects as the Colombo Plan, to which Canada is a small contributor; but it remains inadequate even for immediate needs, let alone those foretold by the population curve.

In an effort to find a working balance between population and natural resources, representatives of nearly 50 nations will meet in Rome on August 31 in the first conference of its kind since the United Nations came into being. One would need to be a blind optimist to believe that this meeting could produce a practical answer forthwith, but it is a start and a hopeful sign of a sane approach to what is in reality the world's basic problem.

They Have Won Respect

FROM Ottawa comes the report that in that city a misguided man slapped a Chinese traffic patrol schoolboy merely because of the color of his skin; an action that appropriately landed him in trouble with the magistrate. Here in Victoria the normal motorist would not dream of refusing to stop for a school safety patrol let alone strike any of these zealous young traffic directors, and the organization embraces many members of non-white origin. The novelty of the school patrol has long since worn off but it remains a highly effective adjunct to regular traffic control nevertheless.

It is in tribute to the devoted efforts of these young boys and girls who make the crossings safe for their school companions—and they take their posts without fail in fair weather or foul—that some 400 pins and certificates have been distributed this month at various school ceremonies. This is their reward for an important job well done. One can only guess at the number of accidents that have been prevented since the Kiwanis junior safety patrol was organized, but undoubtedly they might have been many, and motorists themselves are among those who realize best the value of these juvenile traffic officers.

This is easily noted by the promptness with which car drivers observe the stop or go flag of the junior safety patrol. It is true the patrols have the backing of the law, but obviously the boys and girls are obeyed on their own merits because they have won the respectful attention of their elders. A long range advantage of the scheme also lies in the lesson in traffic guidance and observance impressed on the school patrol groups themselves, all of them potential car drivers of the future. Not only is the safety patrol scheme a valuable traffic factor therefore, but also it promises a crop of careful motorists in years to come.

Fishing Fleet on Grounds

SETTLEMENT of the dispute over salmon prices for the current season came at the week end, and British Columbia trollers and trawlers are on the fishing grounds now in a late but still welcome start. Any serious prolongation of the disagreement would have hurt British Columbia's economy and reduced over-all returns from one of the primary industries of the province. As matters stand, marketing the salmon pack may be the difficult feat, but there would be little to market if the fisheries themselves remained at a standstill. On every count it is good to see the resumption of fishing, an occupation which brings a livelihood to thousands of individuals in B.C.

Coastwise fishing has become a highly integrated pursuit these days. International agreement sets the open seasons on the various species of fish under joint Canadian-American control. Area and catch limits, fishing times and week end "escape" closures combine to distribute the catches so that there will be a fair share all around. Modern methods have gone far to detect the presence of fish, while biological inquiry has developed a much better understanding of their habits than for long was the case.

As integration and improved methods have come into the picture, however, costs likewise have gone up. A fully equipped purse seiner and tender is a considerable investment nowadays. The gill-netters, which operate in the mouth of a river during the salmon runs, also involve the outlay of material sums; while the trolling vessel, with automatic gear, can run into five figures. On shore, the canners have large-scale fixed investments in operating plants, and a marketing organization which literally is concerned with the markets of the world.

One way with another, British Columbia fisheries are a very substantial investment. Nobody profits when fishing is interrupted.

Interpreting the News

Sir Winston Wins His Point

By STANLEY PRIDDLE
Reuters Washington Correspondent

AN authoritative conference source confirmed Monday that the United States has accepted Britain's refusal to enter into early international negotiations for a Southeast Asian defense pact.

The phrase in the statement issued by Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and President Eisenhower after their week-end talks about their decision "to press forward" with defense plans referred only to further talks between the two governments about such an alliance, the source said.

* * *

The talks would be an extension and speeding up of the talks which have been in progress for some time about Asian defense. They would not be held at foreign minister level but by officials and military experts—a "natural projection" of the recent five-power staff talks in Washington.

By agreeing to hasten the planning of Asian defense against Communism, Britain has gone a long way to meeting the American anxiety to speed "united action" in Asia, the source said.

Officials of both sides are expressing satisfaction with the week-end talks, which they regard as being extraordinarily successful in view of the bad atmosphere in which they opened.

* * *

Informed observers in Washington however, believe that the conclusions of the meeting will be subjected to the usual "inquests" and possibly unofficial recriminations when it becomes generally understood that Britain has won her point about the timing of an Asian alliance.

Extreme right-wing members of Congress are expected to be especially critical of the administration's failure to get Britain down to negotiations on the terms of a treaty with the other prospective members.

* * *

The essence of the agreement is that by the time the Indo-China peace talks end at Geneva, much of the ground work for a treaty that takes account of either success or failure will have been done.

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

THEY did not meet Sir Winston Churchill at Washington airport with a bottle of brandy but of course the telegraph wires gurgled with news of the 24 bottles which had been sent in advance to the White House.

The Prime Minister of Wassail was coming.

He's a legendary bloke who defies all normal limitations, is the great Sir Winston, but sometimes I've wondered if his reputation for gargantuan consumption is not cutely self-fed.

President Eisenhower would see for himself last week-end, but he's on record as having his own private doubts. During the war he came back from his first dinner with Churchill and told an aide he thought the legend suspect.

The PM had merely toyed all evening with his glass.

However, if all one reads is true, he is certainly a superman; all told he's swallowed enough brandy to keep one of his battleships afloat.

* * *

Brain and heart
Alike depart
From him who worships gin or brandy.

So wrote a poet, either a prohibitionist or one suffering the pangs of the morning after, but . . .

I'm thinking of a story.

I can't tell it in dialect, which robs the tale of its richness, but it concerns an old-style professional cricketer. A Lancashire man. And he liked brandy or any similar thirst-quencher. And one day within the sacred precincts of Lord's he was rather under the weather, as we camouflage it. And to avoid a scene his captain sent him in to bat. And without ado he proceeded to score a century before lunch.

And later, since protocol is protocol, he was hauled before his county committee to be disciplined for misbehavior, and he said: "Beggin' your pardon, gentlemen, but if I can go to Lord's and get drunk and score a century, maybe you should see I get drunk more often."

* * *

One is tempted to apply the moral to Churchill. If as legend has it Sir Winston steeps himself in brandy then what a wonderful ad this is for the wassail bowl. Indeed brandy-makers are missing a bet; all they need to publicize their ware is the picture of a certain man smoking a cigar and giving the V-sign.

But if brandy is in truth the real begetter of the Churchill genius then it should be a good thing for us all to start following his example. If it is golden liquid that produces such a man what are we waiting for? If it's wassail that sustains the greatest figure of his day, as is so often hinted, why then . . .

Unfortunately I've a feeling that nothing, not even a bottle from his own cellar, will ever make me a Churchill.

Reports from Ottawa

ONLY the Conservatives in Parliament think half an hour isn't enough time for members of the Commons to explain their views to one another and to the country.

Ever since January a special committee representing all political parties in the Commons has been trying to agree on ways to shorten parliamentary debates. The closest the the committee has come to agreement on a major time-saving step is on the proposal to reduce an MP's speaking time from the present 40 minutes to 30 minutes.

The Liberals are strongly in favor of this plan. The CCF and the Social Credit members will go along with the Grits. But the Tories will have none of it. Their opposition raises the suspicion that they're playing politics with the matter—that they'd be quite happy to have the government overrule them, so they could criticize the government.

If Liberal House leader Walter Harris were to move that private members' speaking time be cut from 40 to 30 minutes, the big Grit majority would pass the motion despite Conservative objection. But the Conservatives would then be able to protest that the Grits were trying to muzzle Parliament, to stifle the voice of criticism.

* * *

There are two opinions as to how Parliament should remodel its rules so as to reduce long-winded and repetitious debates. One view is that a substantial majority of the MPs of each party should approve every change. The other—held mainly by impatient Liberals who have seen session after session grow longer with inter-party agreement no nearer—is that the government should take the responsibility for making changes.

So far the government has declined to do so. But the length of the session which ended last week—second only to that of the session of 1903—indicates plainly that if the parties cannot agree among themselves the government will have to act to save Parliament from its own loquaciousness.

It is palpably absurd for Parliament to run on, as it has done this year, past the 136 days of the longest session in the hectic days of the Second World War. This session has been singularly dull and flat, as any post-election session is likely to be. But the lack of issues with which to stir up public opinion—and the lack of any political purpose in so doing, this long before an election—has not dampened debate. Quite the opposite. It seems that the less there has been to talk about, the more some MPs have talked.

* * *

Lest anyone suppose that a cut from 40 to 30 minutes would unduly mute criticism of the government, it should be realized that it's the rare debate indeed in which there's not at least one amendment to the main government motion. An MP can speak on the main motion, and again on each amendment. Moreover, he can speak as often and as long as he wants when the Commons is in committee. And the leader of the official opposition, like the prime minister, is not bound by the time limit rule.

Among MPs there's a very small minority which believes that the shorter and pithier and punchier a speech is, the better it gets an idea across. One MP almost makes a fetish of five and 10-minute speeches. Ironically, he's George Hees, Tory MP for Toronto-Broadview and new president of the Progressive Conservative Association.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

CANADIANS who cross the prairies for the first time are usually impressed with one overpowering thought: the loneliness that apparently broods over the immense expanses of the west. Because the towns and villages are along the railway, the farms and ranches extend to the horizon with the habitations seemingly crouched, miles apart, under a sky as still as the earth itself. To those who come from the crowded east where every village can see the lights or the spire of another village, and a short walk brings you to the fences of your neighbor, there is something eerie in the remoteness of the western scene. Easterners from city and town cannot forget their first passage of the prairies for months or years.

They do not know, for one thing, that there is no loneliness amongst a people accustomed to a wide horizon and the love of a lungful of boundless air. And for another thing, they fail to understand that there are great numbers of people in the world who detest, with a physical detestation far more distressing than loneliness, the clamorous company of dozens or hundreds or thousands of their grasping, hustling fellow men. In the crowded cities live ten times more lonely people than can be found across the whole width of the prairies. And psychologists tell me that in cities and towns live thousands of people who don't know what is the matter with them, but all they need is the glorious peace and solace of a quiet place far from the madding crowd.

There are people who need loneliness as others need company. A friend of mine who wants to write a novel has been trying for two years to get a job as tower man with one of the forestry departments of the eastern provinces. He has failed. There are too many applicants.

On the Record

'Security' At a Price

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE personnel security board of the Atomic Energy Commission, which held hearings on the case of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, leading American atomic scientist, is publishing the entire testimony at the hearings, and Oppenheimer's attorneys have given the press their brief.

By majority decision the board severed Dr. Oppenheimer's relations with the Atomic Energy Commission, though he was cleared of all charges of disloyalty. He still constituted, they ruled, a security risk, not because he was indiscreet in guarding the nation's secrets but because he had held, in the past, opinions apparently sympathetic to Communists, had had associations with some, had advised delaying production of the H-bomb, and had never been "enthusiastic" about it.

We have not yet carefully read and digested the entire testimony and shall withhold conclusions regarding the evidence.

* * *

In general, however, we observe that every person of position or influence who dares to exercise moral and intellectual courage and integrity, to challenge current theses and policies, to admit past errors in the light of later developments—unless he offers himself as public judge and accuser of others—is a "security risk" by current definitions.

The passion for security is thus undermining character and encouraging those who trim their sails to prevailing winds or avoid public stands on any issue lest tomorrow's developments cancel today's and they be caught out, at the risk of their jobs and reputations, on the "wrong" side—wrong, perhaps, for only a transitory historical moment.

* * *

The day has passed (or is in temporary eclipse) when an Emerson could win general consent to the statement: "To be a man is to be a nonconformist." To be a man in Emerson's sense is to be branded a "security risk," and be one, in fact, to one's own "career." And the passion for personal security is also predominant over intellectual conviction, moral principle, and hence freedom. "I must think of my family." "Why stick my neck out?" are the current rationalizations for cowardice or indifference.

Once every free mind and spirit knew that there is no freedom, national or personal, without risk; that to hold an opinion has often been incompatible with holding a job; that the survival of civilization depends not on technological achievements nor economic power, but on the wisdom of their judgment and the strength of their moral and intellectual characters. The Greeks were right, and history has supported them, when they declared that "character is destiny."

* * *

What, then, becomes of security if character fails?

Consider the policies to oppose which made one a "security risk" only yesterday.

From 1941 to 1947 it was "hampering the war effort," or "rocking the peace" to suggest that the Soviets would prove dubious friends once the Axis was defeated. One was "pro-Nazi" if one argued that the dismemberment of Germany would menace all Europe, or that the Nuremberg trials were a travesty of law, setting a precedent of terrifying implications, or that "unconditional surrender" was irrational and barbarous, or that the United Nations was no guarantee of collective security.

One was a "defeatist" (hence a "security risk") if one predicted that the Korean war would precipitate a world holocaust or end in inconclusive stalemate.

It was "unco-operative" to predict that the decision to rearm West Germany before peace had been made and political issues settled would alert the Communists and undermine Franco-German understanding.

And now a scientist is a "security risk" if he has less than "enthusiasm" for taking the initiative in developing weapons capable of destroying the planet.

* * *

This column is intellectually unable to share the current view of "security." We say again that atomic weapons can lead only to universal catastrophe or step-by-step appeasement; that armed intervention in Indo-China will end in universal holocaust or defeat; and that war, and not Communist plots, is the breeder of world revolutions.

We do not submit these considered opinions to a loyalty board, or even to "public opinion."

Their judge will be history.

Esquimalt Plans To Continue Fight For Aid on Road

Esquimalt council is still fighting to win help from Ottawa on improvement of a "beaten up" Admirals Road.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele told the council last night, "there's been no further commitment from Ottawa, but we certainly haven't lost sight of it."

He spoke after Councillor James Bryant, works committee chairman, warned more money will have to be spent on the road soon.

Earlier this year, Esquimalt demanded federal help in repairing the road because it is used mainly by military vehicles, even threatened to close the road to Crown traffic.

The council approved the recommendation of police chief Gilbert Stancombe and the police commission to ban parking on both sides of Admirals from Esquimalt Road north to the boundary because the road is "very dangerous."

Reeve Wurtele also promised to investigate a report that the navy may be encroaching on Esquimalt property in the area of Admirals and Constance Avenue.

HOMES BLOCKED

Councillor J. E. Carey noted that the navy had cleared part of the area, apparently for a parking lot for HMCS Naden, and had blocked off two homes on Constance from traffic.

Alberta Official In Crash

COCHRANE, Alta. (CP) — A 29-year-old priest was killed Sunday when a light plane piloted by Alberta Attorney-General Lucien Maynard crashed and burned near a cemetery adjoining a Franciscan retreat in this foothills town.

Killed was Rev. Vincent Prosser, professor at St. Anthony's College, Edmonton, and formerly of Sutton, Ont. He was trapped in the wreckage and burned to death.

Mr. Maynard, believed flying his own plane, was thrown clear when the plane crashed. He was taken to hospital in Calgary, 25 miles east, suffering a broken arm, undetermined internal injuries and cuts. His condition was described as good.

Eye-witnesses in the nearby Mount St. Francis Franciscan Brothers' retreat said the small plane failed to gain sufficient altitude after taking off from a field. It struck high-tension wires and plummeted to the ground 50 yards from the cemetery.

Big Wind Fails To Blow For Opening of Regatta

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP) — The weather suited everyone but the skippers of sailing boats entered in the Pacific International Yachting Regatta Monday.

The five-day racing program opened with the skippers looking for the big wind that didn't blow.

The opening race, a 23-mile sail from Decatur Island to Bellingham, was called off late in the day with most of the fleet becalmed in placid waters between here and the islands.

Regatta officials ruled if no race and motor vessels were sent out to tow the sailors back into port.

More than 117 boats and 400 crew members were registered at Sunday's rendezvous at Decatur and registration continued at a brisk clip Monday night.

A series of races for the large and small boat divisions start this morning. Among the top events on tap today is a 19-mile race for six-metre sloops for the Sir Thomas Lipton Trophy.

London Greets Rulers

LONDON (Reuters) — Blue and yellow Swedish flags fluttered all over London Monday as Britain turned out her royal pomp and ceremony to welcome King Gustaf Adolf and Queen Louise of Sweden here on a four-day state visit.

Cheering crowds and hooting flag-decked tugs greeted the elderly northern monarchs as they traveled up the Thames river in the Swedish cruiser Tre Kronor.

The Duke of Edinburgh, Queen Louise's nephew, was the first to welcome them. He boarded the cruiser when it reached Greenwich naval centre, on London's eastern outskirts.

Queen Elizabeth waited to greet them up-river at Westminster.

If Ottawa, Vancouver Fail To Pay

B.C. May Levy Toll on Marpole Bridge

The provincial government may levy a toll on the new Marpole bridge if Ottawa and Vancouver fail to help pay for it, Public Works Minister P. A. Gaglardi said last night.

The minister said in an address that the federal government's offer of $400,000 towards the cost of the new span was "absurd."

He said Ottawa paid half the cost of the Patricia Bay Highway to the Sidney airport and yet "denied the same to the citizens of Vancouver."

"Can it be that Sidney airport is of more importance than the International Airport at Vancouver?" he said. "Can it be that the City of Vancouver is of lesser importance to Ottawa than Victoria?"

He said the project must and will be carried out by the Social Credit government but the toll may be levied to make up the lack of help from Vancouver and Ottawa.

Answering charges made two weeks ago by Liberal leader Arthur Laing, Mr. Gaglardi said any faults in the highway from Prince George to Prince Rupert were the fault of past governments which failed to carry out proper maintenance.

He added that he did not blame former public works minister the late E. C. Carson, "who, I believe, went to a premature grave because of the tremendous burdens that rested upon him in office."

Turning back to Mr. Laing's criticism, although he did not mention the Liberal leader by name, Mr. Gaglardi said the Savona road paving job was common practice throughout the whole province.

"One is appalled at the irresponsible and ridiculous statements that come from certain quarters as well as apparent ignorance of the workings of the department of public works and its common practices," he said.

ABUSE CHARGED

Mr. Laing had charged the minister with abuse of "power and position" in by-passing Savona with the Trans-Canada Highway and then paving the secondary road almost up to Trans-Canada standards.

The minister said the government had spent $39,000,000 on tractors since the Socreds took over in 1952-53 on the pay-as-you-go policy. $41,500,000 in more work was obtained for the 1953-54 and will spend $41,349,000 in 1954-55, every dollar spent than under the previous Liberal government.

He said "keen bidding" by contractors was the reason.

Hope Dim For Break In Strike

PORTLAND (AP) — Both union and management spokesmen said Monday prospects appeared dim for an early settlement of a strike of some 100,000 CIO Woodworkers and AFL Lumber and Sawmill Workers in the Northwest.

A Lumbermen's Industrial Relations Committee report said total settlements reported in early Monday involve only about 2 per cent of the workers affected by the strike in Washington, Oregon, Northern California, Idaho and Montana.

Merchants Want United Appeal

PORT ALBERNI—A survey of the business area has shown that merchants of Port Alberni are in favor of a united appeal for donations to charities to eliminate the numerous drives held here annually.

William McRae, head of the committee which conducted the survey, reported at the regular luncheon meeting of Port Alberni and District Chamber of Commerce.

A further meeting will take place between chamber representatives and union officials to get the united appeal scheme moving. The plan originated with the unions.

Other business of the chamber meeting included authorization of a $300 grant to the Upper Island Publicity Bureau.

Alberni Mystery Solved

ALBERNI—The case of the disappearing bell was solved here over the week end.

City Clerk Cy Ryan notified police Saturday morning when the old Locie bell, recently presented to the city as a memento of the dead days of railroad logging in the district, was missing from its mounting near Alberni City Hall.

But there was no arrest. Mayor Ben Wright, who on May 24 had accepted the bell on behalf of the city, had turned it over to a representative of the donors, Macmillan Bloedel Ltd., to be inscribed.

The act had taken place on the previous evening when both had attended a Boy Scout meeting at the City Hall.

Council Told Cemeteries Plentiful

Nanaimo Agrees To Combine With Harewood in Sewer Work

NANAIMO — Nanaimo and suburban Harewood will join in setting up a Greater Nanaimo sewer board, city council decided last night.

The council also learned that in the wake of a red-hot cemetery squabble, Nanaimo is likely to find itself before long with more cemetery space than it can use.

Aldermen approved the suggestion from Harewood for meeting the sewer problem facing the two communities.

Council agreed that the problem will become more acute as water facilities are improved, and as Harewood will be part of Greater Nanaimo water board, a joint effort was agreed upon.

Nanaimo council suggested the water and sewer boards might well be operated by the same body.

Council authorized proceeding with Harewood to obtain necessary authority for setting up such a board.

CEMETERY PLANS

With the present cemetery likely to be filled within a month or so, council considered the apparently favorable proposition of perhaps 20 acres in the Behan Park area, owned by the city. It was also told that J. W. Hagel has been given provincial health department approval for a private cemetery in the Cedar district, on a site once considered by the city itself, and it approved his application for a license to operate Cedar Valley Memorial Gardens.

The new cemetery site committee of the council, headed by Ald. William McGregor, reported that tests at the Behan Park site indicated that about 20 acres at the north end would be suitable.

NEW HEADQUARTERS

The proposed police and fire station on the Stewart property, Comox Road, may again be referred to the ratepayers.

This by-law went down to defeat recently when voted on at the same time as the unpopular cemetery site by-law.

Ald. G. Hall told council it was planned, however, to arrange many public meetings before any further by-law is voted upon.

She said that the important factors of the police and fire hall site were overlooked in the heat of the recent campaign. The fire marshal, she said, considers the Comox Road fire station site the best in the city. Many citizens had urged city-owned Lubbock Square, she said, not realizing that this site is not large enough for the combined headquarters, and additional property would have cost as much as the Comox Road site.

ONE AMENDMENT

With only one minor amendment made, all by-laws relating to revised trades and professional licensing in Nanaimo were approved by council. The new by-laws will probably add $10,000 annually to city revenue.

The single amendment reduced fees on stationary vending machines from $5 a unit every six months to $2 a unit.

The school board of Nanaimo district will be able to proceed with reconstruction of North field, Waterloo and South Wellington schools, for which $41,503 is available.

Council approved the board's application to use this unexpended balance of the 1949 school by-law. Approval of both the city and the department of education is required.

PORT ALBERNI — A short circuit and fire on top of a power pole at Victoria Quay caused an 80-minute blackout of the entire Alberni area Saturday night.

Three Die In Fraser

The Fraser took its third life in 24 hours in the delta area last night when a four-year-old boy fell off the Fishermen's Co-operative wharf here and was drowned.

Little Wayne Enge was pulled from the water by Fred Krauchi, who applied artificial respiration, but the boy died before an inhalator crew arrived.

Two men were drowned near Richmond Sunday in a rescue attempt.

They are John Zamaitas, 32, of Vancouver, father of Willis Zamaitas who was rescued from the North Arm of the Fraser, and John Bulvonas, 28, also of Vancouver, who drowned with Zamaitas.

At Harrison Lake another drowning occurred after the unidentified victim — about 19 years old and a visitor from the U.S. — made a desperate attempt to swim to safety after his small boat tipped in choppy waters. A companion made it to safety.

Island Sport Roundup

Port Alberni Netters Downed by Nanaimo

PORT ALBERNI—Port Alberni A teams were defeated for the second time this season by Nanaimo in the Upper Island Tennis League when Hub City players came to local courts Sunday. Nanaimo made seven points at the end of the day's match play and Port Alberni, five.

JOHN NIAGARA Talks about:

Bills marked "PLEASE REMIT"

Most people have had a bill sometime, bearing the words, "Please remit by return mail". And many of us have not always been able to send payment by return mail. A large unplanned bill, or a lot of little ones, can often cause this to happen. Most people don't realize that all they need to clear away their debts is time; yes, time to spread the payments into future pay envelopes. A friendly loan gets you a lump sum of money, with which to pay your bills. You then have time to repay, with payments you can handle more easily. It's a simple way to get back on your feet. Friendly loans up to $1500 from Niagara are life-insured at no extra cost to you. Besides, oh many friendly loans, the rates are lower. If you need money why don't you give yourself time to pay by arranging a Niagara loan. We'll be glad to see you . . . so just drop in.

Shamrocks Rally To Down Indians 8-7 in Overtime

Vancouver	17	9	8	194	174	18
Nanaimo	16	7	9	149	186	14
New Westminster	18	3	15	191	234	6

Last night's score: VICTORIA 8, at PNE Indians 7 (overtime).

Next game tonight: Nanaimo at Vancouver.

Victoria Shamrocks, bidding for their fourth successive Inter-City Lacrosse League championship, opened up a 10-point lead over the field at Vancouver from behind a 6-2 half-time deficit to edge the second-place PNE Indians in overtime, 8-7.

It was the fourth straight win for the league leaders after they had lost two in a row and it was the third straight time they had taken the verdict over Indians, first club to defeat the league champions this season.

MEET PILS TOMORROW

With only 15 games left to play, the Shamrocks can practically clinch the title this week. They host the Improved Pilseners here tomorrow night and play a second time against the Indians at Vancouver Friday. Victory in both games would make the task of catching the Victorians all but impossible.

Last night's result brought bitter words from Indian coach Jake Proctor, who has threatened not to play Friday's game if Bill Wilkes is named as one of the referees.

PROCTOR STEAMED UP

Proctor got himself all steamed up over what he claimed was "dirty" checking by Shamrocks' Jack Bionda.

"The commission wonders what is killing attendance," Proctor fumed. "I say it's refereeing like that. Wilkes is prejudiced against us and it dates back to his playing days, when I used to beat his brains out."

Proctor also claimed that Bionda and Norm Baker are sent out by the Shamrocks "to disorganize other teams with their chippy checking."

"Bionda gets away with murder," Proctor charged. "He carries his stick face high, talks back to the referees, and they do nothing."

"One of my players complained to Wilkes about Bionda. You know what he said? 'He's just trying. You'll have to ignore him'."

PECKED AWAY

Shamrocks kept pecking away in the penalty-filled game after appearing as if they were to lose and finally tied it on a goal by Nip O'Hearn near the end of regulation time.

Play was tight in the overtime period and the only goal was the result of a lone effort by veteran Arnie Ferguson.

Shamrocks got 18 minutes in penalties, six of them going to Bionda, while Indians drew 16 minutes. Bionda, the league's top point-getter, was held to an assist as Whitey Severson and Jackie Northup led the Victoria attack with two goals each.

Bill Harris and Bob Lee each scored twice for Indians, who could only get 19 shots away at Victoria goalie Geordy Johnston.

Last night's score: United Services 6, Arrow Furniture 4. Sunday games: Arrows 5, Fletchers 3; Students 2, Duncan 1.

Next game tonight at 6:30: Chinese Students vs. Cec Fletchers.

United Services tightened up the senior "A" men's softball league standings at Central Park last night, stopping a ninth-inning rally by Arrow Furniture to score a 6-4 victory over the league-leaders.

The triumph moved Services into a second-place deadlock with Cec Fletchers and Chinese Students. Arrows hold a two-point lead over the three teams but they will have to share first place tonight when Fletchers and Students battle it out at Central Park at 6.30.

KINCH GETS WIN

Little George Kinch won his third straight game over Arrows last night but he wasn't around at the finish. Kinch gave up three runs in the bottom of the eighth inning and was replaced by Norm Haskell in the ninth.

Haskell gave up one run and got out of a dangerous situation when he struck out Archie Sluggett to end the game with the tying run on base.

The Servicemen pounced on Sluggett for two runs in the third and knocked him out of the box with a three-run outburst in the fifth inning. The final run came in the seventh off reliefer John Furmston.

Jack McCormick paced the winners at the plate with three hits while Hal Yardley had two hits for the losers.

On Sunday, Arrows downed Fletchers, 5-3, at Central Park, and Chinese Students trimmed Duncan Mayo Lumber at Duncan, 3-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Henry Wong.

Button-Catches Mark Start of Fifth Week

Fishing started off with a bang yesterday in the first day of the fifth week of the 10-week qualifying period in the annual Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association ladder derby.

While only seven salmon were entered for weekly rungs, with some boats still out at Brentwood when the list was made up, two of them were bigger than 25 pounds.

Biggest, and the second largest to date in the event, was taken by Gordon Osborne near the island at the Goldstream end. It was hooked on a Mac's Squid plug and it weighed 26 pounds two ounces. Osborne was using two pounds of weight and 300 feet of line.

MAC'S SQUID AGAIN

Misery Bay gave up the other button-winner, a 25-pound 11-ounce spring caught by George McCredie. And it was a Mac's Squid which fooled this one, too. McCredie was fishing with a pound of weight and 300 feet of line.

Four of the other five fish were caught at the Goldstream end and the seventh was weighed in at Brentwood.

Derby officials also released the official list of qualifiers in the fourth week, which ended Sunday evening. It showed that the smallest fish to win its conqueror a spot in the August 22 fish-off for the $3,500 in prizes weighed six and a quarter pounds. Smallest qualifying fish in the third week was four and a half pounds, in the second week four and three-quarter pounds, and in the first week three pounds and 13 ounces.

TOPPED FOURTH WEEK

Ed Fong, who topped the ladder with a 30¼-pounder, only silver-button fish caught to date, won the first weekly prize of a $15 script. Second and third prizes of $10 and $8 went, respectively, to E. Jawndrew and Gerry Petrie. Both had qualified previously and were fishing in the weekly competition when they caught their button fish.

D. E. Watson won fourth prize of $7 and second place on the ladder with a 20½-pounder and Five Ball, a Chinese entrant, won the last weekly prize of $5 with a 19-pound, five-ounce salmon.

Bolt Wins Golf Tourney; Bests Stewart in Playoff

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UP)—Tommy Bolt of Houston, Tex., fired a four-under-par 67 Monday to defeat Earl Stewart, Jr., of Dallas, Tex., in the playoff for the third annual $15,000 insurance city open golf tournament.

Stewart shot a one-under-par 70 and kept the match close until the final hole, when he overshot by a few inches and took a two-stroke penalty.

Bolt collected four birdies and his putting proved the most extraordinary part of his game. Although he missed two of less than three feet, he holed several long ones to more than compensate for his lapses.

With his victory Bolt picked up $2,400 and a share of the playoff gate. Stewart received the second-place purse of $1,800.

On Sunday, Bolt missed a nine-footer for a birdie on the final hole to end in a tie with Stewart.

Entering the final round five strokes up on Stewart, Bolt wound up with a par 71 and Stewart fired a 66. Bolt shot rounds of 71-60-69-71, while Stewart posted rounds of 68-63-69-66.

Julius Boros, former United States Open champion, shot a 68 Sunday for a total of 273, two strokes behind the leaders.

Cartier Whips Portuguez

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (UP) — Walter Cartier, New York middleweight, scored a unanimous decision over Tuzo Portuguez of Costa Rica in their 10-round bout Monday night at Eastern Parkway Arena.

Cartier scaled 164½ pounds for the widely-televised fight, while Portuguez weighed 161.

The 30-year-old Cartier was dropped for a mandatory eight-count in the fifth round when Portuguez connected with a left hook to the jaw. It was the only knockdown in the rough fight.

Portuguez was penalized the third round by referee Jack Watson for a low blow. Both were warned in the second round.

Both fighters suffered cuts over the eyes during the rugged brawl. Portuguez was cut above the right brow in the second round and Cartier suffered a slight cut below the right eye in the eighth.

BY JIM TANG

It's not how often you get on but when and how far that counts the most in baseball, and Victoria Tyees are not likely to argue that theory today after what happened to them against Lewiston Brones last night at Royal Athletic Park.

Pitted against curve-balling John Marshall, the Tyees were credited with 17 hits and although four or five were of the scratch variety, there were enough of the legitimate kind to make the 5-3 setback a surprise. But 15 of the safeties were for one base and 11 of them came after two were out.

22 REACH BASE

Marshall, pitching as if he felt able to shut off any threat, went the full nine innings for a rather peculiar win. The balding veteran made a total of 166 pitches ad never faced less than four men in any inning as he allowed 22 Tyees to get on the bags.

That hardly told the story. Marshall got the first two men to face him in the first, third, fourth, sixth, seventh and eighth innings and 13 of the first 18 Tyees to reach base got there after two were out. Sixteen of the 22 Victorians to reach base were still there when the third out was made.

Yakima Bears kept alive their faint hopes of catching the Vancouver Capilanos by July 5 by downing Wenatchee, 8-5, while the Caps were losing to Salem Senators, 8-6.

Results left the Caps five games out in front with the first-half title depending on how Yakima fares in a five-game series with the Caps which opens in Vancouver Thursday.

Senators were apparently well beaten when they went to bat in the ninth inning against Bud Beasley. But five hits and two bases on balls resulted in six runs.

Fan Support Keeps Wenatchee in League

Victoria Tyees, who have been worrying that Wenatchee Chiefs might go through with their threat to drop from the WIL, can breathe a bit easier today.

The Chiefs, who are scheduled to play five games here this week, including the important—to club finances—July 1 doubleheader on Thursday, had threatened to drop out unless Wenatchee fans turned out in force for last night's game with Yakima Bears.

NO ADMISSION

A figure of 3,000 had been set as the goal and Wenatchee almost made it as 2,800 showed up. No admission was charged and a silver collection taken instead. There was no definite announcement but it is almost certain that the Chiefs will continue.

The Tyees, however, contributed little to the peace of mind of their club officials on Sunday when they swept a split doubleheader at Wenatchee to help discourage any all-out attendance last night.

Getting good pitching from Bob Drilling and Hal Flinn, the Tyees copped the series, three games to one, with 3-2 and 6-3 wins.

Drilling gave up nine hits in the first game but gained his eighth win in five decisions by scattering them judiciously and getting three double plays out of his teammates while the Tyees made excellent use of their five hits.

One of them was a two-run single by Drilling and the last one was a single by Mel Stein which scored Neil Sheridan with the tie-breaking run in the ninth inning.

FINE ROAD TRIP

Sheridan, who had a fine road trip starred in the second game as he hit his sixth home run with a man on base in the three-run first inning to get Flinn away to a good start. The Chiefs got it to 4-3 by the ninth out the Tyees came through with a pair of insurance runs in their last turn at the plate. Flinn struck out seven in gaining his sixth verdict.

Other games Sunday saw the Yakima Bears gain a game on the leading Vancouver Capilanos by knocking off Edmonton Eskimos twice, 6-1 and 5-2, and Tri-City edge Salem, 11-10.

The double defeat eliminated the Eskimos from any chance to win the first-half title.

Cafemen Gain Tie for Lead With 5-4 Win

Strathcona Cafe moved into a first-place tie with Oak Bay in the Greater Victoria Minor Lacrosse Association's juvenile "B" league at Stevenson Park last night by edging Oak Bay, 5-4.

Holding a 5-2 lead after three periods, the winners held off a last-quarter rally by Oak Bay for the victory.

In diaper-division action, Larry Johnson scored six goals in a losing cause as Shamrocks trimmed Tigers, 9-6, and Blue Bombers thumped Cougars, 12-6.

Scorers follow:

Stunt Capades At Shearing's

Joey Chitwood's Stunt Capades of 1954 will appear at Shearing's Speedway, Cobble Hill, tonight with 30 stunts included in a two-hour program.

Don Chadwick, national stunt champion from Tacoma, Wash., will head the show. Chadwick won the International Stuntmen's Association all-round title in 1953, specializing in roll-over contests and performing the dive-bomber crash.

Also on the program will be broad-jumping motorcycles over three parked cars, smacking into flaming plank walls with cars and motorcycles, blowing up a man with 20 sticks of dynamite, crashing cars end-over-end and crashing them in mid-air.

The show, which appeared at Western Speedway last night, will start at Shearing's at 8.00.

Marlene Conquers Jitters To Score Two Victories

GANTON, Eng. (CP)—Marlene Stewart settled down after a bout of apparent nervousness Monday and marched through the first and second rounds in defense of the British women's open golf championship she won a year ago.

The freckle-faced, 20-year-old redhead from Monthill, Ont., recovered her usual composure after trailing by two strokes at the turn to win a 3-and-2 first-round victory over Miss Anne Scarsgill of Yorkshire, England.

Then as she warmed up, she swept through a 7-and-6 win over Mrs. Ruth Ferguson of Manchester without losing a single hole.

BIG TEST TODAY

Today Marlene has what may be her biggest test in the British open. She meets Margaret (Wiffy) Smith of Pasadena, Calif., a promising 17-year-old who weighs 161 pounds and is being hailed by some British sportswriters as another Babe Zaharias.

Marlene, who won raves for her cool play under fire at last year's tournament, is the favorite this year, took time out from studies at Rollins College in Florida to come to Britain to defend her title.

As usual, the five-foot-one swinger is the tiniest golfer in the field. Happy and laughing before Monday's play, she became silent and grim once she stepped out on the course.

Last night's scores: Nanaimo 11, Navy 3; Foul Bay 10, Jokers 5.

Next game, Friday: Foul Bay vs. Jokers, Stevenson Park.

Nanaimo and Foul Bay failed to break their deadlock for first place in the senior "B" lacrosse league last night as they both chalked up easy victories at Memorial Arena.

Defending champion Foul Bay moved past Jokers, 10-5, while Nanaimo had little trouble with Navy, taking an 11-3 decision to send the sailors down to their 14th straight defeat.

Checking well, Foul Bay held a big edge over Jokers most of the way, holding a 3-0 lead at the end of the first period and a 5-1 bulge at half-time.

Jack Milburn led Foul Bay's attack with three goals and two assists and Art Green also picked up three goals.

Nanaimo held Navy off the scoresheet in the first half while building up a 3-0 lead.

The sailors, who were blanked by Foul Bay Friday night, finally broke into the scoring in the third period when they got two goals.

Tom White, who has sparked the up-Island team in recent games, scored three goals and three assists while Clem Linford had four goals.

Tony Ignores Blisters In Eliminating Rose; Patty Upsets Seixas

WIMBLEDON, Eng. (UP)—U.S. champion Tony Trabert of Cincinnati, ignoring a handful of blisters on his racquet hand, steam-rollered Australia's dangerous Mervyn Rose in straight sets Monday and gained the semi-finals of the Wimbledon tennis championships along with Budge Patty of Los Angeles, the 1950 winner.

Trabert overwhelmed Rose, the Australian champion, 6-2, 6-2, 7-5. Patty, working his stylish backhand to perfection, upset defending champion Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, 7-5, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, and became the favorite to meet Trabert in an all-American final.

DROBNY OUSTS HOAD

Thirty-three-year-old Jaroslav Drobny, exiled Czech playing out of Egypt, scored the tournament's biggest upset by drubbing Lew Hoad of Australia 6-4, 6-3, 6-3, and will meet Patty in one semi-final. Little Ken Rosewall of Australia gained the semi-final berth against Trabert with a bitterly fought triumph over teammate Rex Hartwig, 6-3, 3-6, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1.

The day's tennis dramatics were confined to the men's division since six American women led by two-time winner Maureen (Little Mo) Connolly of San Diego, Calif., swept into the quarter-finals with comparative ease.

Advancing with Little Mo were Doris Hart of Coral Gables, Fla.; Shirley Fry of Akron, O.; Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif.; Margaret Osborne DuPont of Bellevue, Del., and Betty Rosenquest Pratty, formerly of South Orange, N.J., and now living in Jamaica, B.W.I.

WAS QUESTION MARK

Trabert was the big question mark as the day's play began. The stocky Cincinnati belter had one blister the size of a quarter and several smaller ones on his racquet hand as a result of Saturday's marathon against Sven Davidson of Sweden. He also had a blister on his right foot.

But Rose, who had played brilliantly up to this round, had no answer for Trabert's devastating attack. Tony won the first set in 15 minutes, the second in 18 and required exactly one hour to complete the demolition of the southpaw Australian titleholder.

Miss Connolly led the parade as American tennis queens grabbed six of the eight berths in the quarter finals, requiring just 30 minutes to rout Angela Buxton of England, 6-0, 6-0. Miss Buxton, a baseline player, won just nine points in the first set and 14 in the second.

Miss Hart, runner-up to Little Mo last year, ousted Nicola Migliori of Italy, 6-1, 6-1, and Miss Fry defeated Pat Ward of England, 6-3, 6-1.

Miss Brough, moving to the net frequently, turned back Barbara Bradley of Reno, Nev., 6-4, 6-1, and Mrs. Dupont eliminated Critiane Mercelis of Belgium, 6-1, 8-6. Mrs. Pratt won a long duel against Joan Curry of Great Britain, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3.

Mrs. Shirley Bloomer Brasher of Vancouver and Mrs. L. Alvensleben-Rigollet of Switzerland defeated Philippe Washer of Belgium and Mrs. Heather Brewer of Bermuda, 7-9, 6-4, 6-4.

Bob Bedard of Sherbrooke, Que., and Jacqueline Kermina of France were defeated 6-2, 6-3, by M. A. Otway and Miss J. F. Burke of New Zealand.

SEVEN PITCHERS

Seven pitcher saw action in the Kiwanis-Rotary battle as Rotary used four pitchers in an effort to win its first game of second-half play. Three successive singles combined with three errors and a walk produced three runs in the first extra inning and gave the Kiwanians their hard-earned victory.

Tim Spelman, Cecil Butt and Bobby Bloomfield each had two hits for the winners and Dennis Todd, Jack Impey and Bob Martin each cracked out two hits for Rotary.

FAST START

In the second game, Gyros scored all their runs in the first two innings as Billy Smith held Odd Fellows to six hits, giving up single runs in the second and third innings.

Police Quell Wild Brawl After Hungary Downs Brazil, 4-2, in World Soccer; Germany Ousts Yugoslavia, 2-0

BERN, Switzerland—Hungary and Brazil were censured Monday for unsporting play during Sunday's world cup soccer quarter-final match which exploded into a locker-room brawl after the game.

The censure, laid against the two national soccer associations, was delivered by the organizing committee of the International Soccer Federation at an emergency meeting called Monday to investigate the game and the proceedings which led up to the after-game riot.

VICIOUS GAME

Favored Hungary eliminated Brazil, 4-2, after a brawling, wrestling, kick-and-shove encounter that was one of the most vicious international games on record. Referee Arthur Ellis of England ordered one Hungarian and two Brazilians off the field and the teams continued their battle in the dressing rooms with broken bottles and football boots.

Germany pulled a surprise in Sunday's other quarter-final match by eliminating Olympic finalists Yugoslavia, 2-0. The semi-finals, which were decided by draws, will bring together Hungary and defending champion Uruguay, and Germany and Austria.

During Monday's meeting, the International Soccer Federation ordered the federations to punish players cautioned or sent out of the game, according to the seriousness of their offence. The committee did not insist on suspension of any of the players involved.

ANOTHER INQUIRY

The organizing committee Monday investigated only the game. The brawl, which police had to stop, will come up later in the week when reports come in from officials, police and eye-witnesses.

The two sets of team officials waited an hour in an ante-room of the Schweizerhof Hotel at Bern to be called into the inquiry. During that time, they sat back to back, never looking at each other.

SEVERAL FIGHTS

The game ended with only 19 men on the field—and most of them limping and bleeding. Ellis had sent off Hungary's [illegible] Santos and Humberto Barbosa for fighting.

Several fist fights broke out during the game but most of the trouble started just after the final whistle. According to eye witnesses, Mauro Rafael Maurino of Brazil walked up to Hungary's Zoltan Czibor and held out his right hand in an apparent move to make friends after the game.

BROKEN BOTTLE

Then it started. As the Brazilians walked off the field, Hungarian captain Ferenc Puskas, who didn't play because of an injury suffered in a previous game, slashed one of them with a broken bottle.

The Brazilian—Joao Baptiasti Carlos Pinheiro—was carried off by teammates with a three-inch gash in his head.

Hungarian players surrounded Puskas and took him to the dressing room. There the fighting broke out again—this time with all the players and officials of each team joining in.

The maddened players fought with soccer boots, bottles, glass from shattered partitions—everything they could put their hands to.

At least two policemen were injured in breaking up the battle and hundreds of Swiss police cordoned the locker rooms to keep out fans.

Ellis, a Yorkshire textile worker regarded as one of Britain's top referees, came off the field amid a guard of 20 baton-carrying police.

After the battle the Brazilians ran to their bus by the locker [illegible] down their cheeks and their coach, Zeze Moreira, yelling: "The Hungarians stole the match."

A Hungary official said the after-game roughhouse began when the South Americans forced their way into the Hungarian dressing room, broke windows and flung a football [illegible]

Then, in the darkness, they allegedly attacked Hungarian officials and players with their cleated football boots.

When little soldiers call for attention!

Cuts and scratches picked up in mock warfare often lead to real battles with infection. It's a wise Mother who defeats this enemy by cleansing cuts and wounds with non-poisonous 'DETTOL'—the all-purpose antiseptic.
'DETTOL' is a reserve force all families can call upon to fight infectious germs in every case of antiseptic need.
Always keep swift-acting 'DETTOL' handy. Often a child's health rests on this one important fact—
DETTOL Kills Germs

Grain Prices

WINNIPEG (CP)—Increased selling by international interests sent flax prices down on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange but other prices moved in a narrow range.

The flax sales drew some processor support. Oats and barley trade was mostly domestic.

There was no report on week-end export loadings of Canadian wheat.

The lakehead prices of class two WA and domestic wheat were down ¼ cent except class two durums which were unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains had a shaky tone on the board of trade although recovering in part from an early selloff.

Increased hedging pressure held back wheat. Cooler weather in the central states created selling in oats. Good crop prospects acted as a restraining influence on corn.

Oil in Peace Acts as Spur For Pacific

VANCOUVER The report that oil had been discovered in [illegible] River acted as a mild spur to those stocks which had been battered by the recent gas pipeline upturn.

Pacific Petroleum, which brought in the well added 25 cents at 7.75 and others in the group were fractionally better. The rest of the oil market was flat and lower.

Nesbitt Labine was again popular among mines closing 17 cents higher at 2.57...but trading was limited in this section.

Powell River continued strong at $31½.

Uraniums Stronger

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market closed higher led ahead by junior golds and uraniums.

Algom Uraniums and Mac Leod Cockshutt in uraniums and Sullivan and Elder in golds hit 1954 highs.

The climb spilled over into senior base metals, with Noranda ahead $2 to lead.

Industrials were led ahead by papers. Constructions foods steels and financial institutions also were strong.

Western oils were weaker but Canso On Canadian Southern Pete Pacific Pete and Peace River Gas countered the trend with good gains.

Junior golds were well ahead but other gold groups were steady.

Du Pont Soars

NEW YORK (UP)—Split-up rumors sparked a wild market for Du Pont stock. It soared more than seven points to a new high and helped to lift industrials to a new top since October 17 1929.

There were several other wide movers in a relatively quiet stock list. The outside range was between a gain of 15 points in New York & Harlem, which made a new high at 515, and a decline of nine points in the volatile St Louis Southwestern Railway.

US Gypsum started the fireworks when it shot up six points to a new high at 168 on a tip from a radio commentator. Mahoning coal railroad ran up five points. A long list of others rose three points or more.

There were some mild fireworks on the downside also, mostly in the oils, which suffered from reports of price softening. Losses of more than two points were recorded in Seaboard Oil, Texas Gulf Producing, Texas Pacific Land Trust and Cities Service.

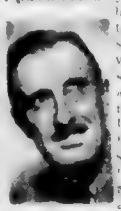
The oils in the industrial average held in a relatively narrow area, with Texas Co. off more than a point and Jersey up a fraction.

Right Price Sells Anything

BY HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

You can still sell anything in the United States by the price has to be right. Business men point to this as proof that the US economy remains sound in spite of overproduction in many lines.

In a weekend visit to Seattle I was assured by merchants and business men that when trade slackens it is always possible to sell it again by price reductions. The US today is a bargain conscious society probably to an exaggerated degree after years in which the salesman has called the tune.



The automobile industry is typical. Cars have not been moving fast enough to keep up with the production lines and pressure on dealers has been applied by the manufacturers.

The result has been discount sales and relaxed credit terms, and as I am assured, new car sales are again booming.

The man who is worried is the dealer. He sees his profit being squeezed out and the problem of the used car continues unresolved. There's hardly a vacant lot around Seattle that is not either cluttered with used cars or filled with automobile junk.

The same story is being told in the stores. There's nothing in sight trade that a reduction of prices cannot cure. But the sales have to provide genuine bargains. The shopper is selective and well informed as to prices.

One merchant told me the new situation demanded investigation of selling methods.

"The grocery business with its super stores has shown us how to cut down overhead," said one Seattle merchant. He prophesied that labor saving devices would be the main feature of store changes in the next few years.

WELCOME PEACE NEWS

When the Westcoast Transmission Pipeline got its application to export natural gas to the United States it became apparent that British Columbia's main Peace River interest had changed overnight from gas to oil.

The news relayed yesterday from George McMahon, president of Pacific Petroleums to Premier W. A. C. Bennett that the Buick Creek No. 3 well reported last week as a natural gas producer had also come in as an oil well, comes at an opportune moment.

If oil is discovered in reasonably large quantity it will give a new impetus to the development of the area.

Premier Bennett's remark that "B.C. is in the oil business" may be slightly optimistic but the chances are that the Buick Creek discovery will cause some more of the big companies to get to work on their B.C. reserves with more enthusiasm than they have shown lately.

When asked if he thought there would be a ready market for the product if oil was found in the Peace River J. R. White, president of Imperial Oil on his recent visit here, replied:

"If the amount of oil discovered is big enough ways will be found to get it to market."

RAILS DO BADLY

The earnings of the two Canadian railways in the first five months of 1954 have dropped to a degree that must cause alarm.

Last week, Canadian National reported that its 1953 profit to the end of May of $6,739,000 had failed into a loss of $817,000 for 1954.

Yesterday Canadian Pacific Railway reported its earnings were down about 20 per cent from last year. The net revenue for the first five months was $6,663,188 against $8,231,522 a year ago.

May was a particularly bad month for CPR. Its gross earnings dropped $5,625,732, and a spokesman for the company claims that this is the largest decline ever recorded for the corresponding period of any year in the history of Canadian Pacific—not even excluding the years of the depression.

The decline was experienced despite drastic cuts in railway expenses, personnel alone being reduced by nearly 5,000.

The gravity of the situation is that it is almost certain to be followed by renewed applications for increased freight rates and fares by the railway companies.

The heavy loss in revenue has [illegible] Transport Commissioners recently refused the railways permission to make across-the-board general freight rate advances.

Unless gross earnings pick up within the next few months the commissioners might find it difficult to resist further railway claims, depressing as that might be to the rest of the Canadian economy.

Osborne Takes Title; City Golfers Well Up

Three Victoria golfers finished well up in the second annual West Coast open golf tournament at Port Alberni Saturday.

Bill Osborne of Port Alberni won the Russell Turner Memorial Trophy by carding a one-over-par 103 in the 27-hole competition. Tied for second one stroke behind were George (Porky) Andrews of the Royal Colwood Golf Club and Hugh Morrison of Gorge Vale.

DOUBLE BOGIE

Morrison, the favorite, lost his chance for the champion ship won last year by Gorge Vale's John Merriman when he took a double bogie on the 26th hole. Morrison had rounds of 34-34-36 and Andrews shot rounds of 33-34-37.

Vince Clarkson of Gorge Vale and Doug McLean of Nanaimo tied for fourth place, each carding a 105. Nanaimo professional Mike Rivers took sixth place. Joe Buchanan of Port Alberni finished seventh, and Cliff Beaubier placed eighth.

Bill Crooks of the host club fired a 69 to take low gross honors on the first 18 holes; Leo Zaharoff of Port Alberni and Monty Hill of Vancouver's Marine Drive tied for low gross score on the second 18, and Eph Robinson of Courtenay fired the low gross on the third 18.

Bill Young of Port Alberni won low net honors with 91 while Melvin LaPlante, an Alberni District High School student, was runner-up with a 91½.

Cup Golf Results

Mrs. R. Rickinson won the Wilkerson Cup at the Gorge Vale Golf Club Sunday, finishing with a net 150 in the 36-hole medal competition.

Mrs. S. Paterson had the low-net score of 76 on the first 18 holes and Mrs. H. Kirkham took low-net honors on the second 18 with a 76. Miss N. O'Connell took low-gross laurels with 184.

Farmers Split Twin Bill With Parksville Loggers

Farmer's Construction moved to within one game of clinching the Vancouver Island Senior Amateur Baseball League championship Sunday by splitting a doubleheader with Parksville Loggers at the up-Island centre.

The crack Victoria squad trimmed Parksville, 13-1, in the opening game to make it six victories in seven meetings with Parksville. But the Loggers came back in the second contest, routing Bill Garner in the first inning and going on to a 14-7 triumph.

The teams will meet in Victoria at a later date to continue their 12-game schedule and Farmers need only one more victory to clinch the title.

BOYD PACES ATTACK

Paul Beck and Don Donahue shared mound duties in the first game, holding Parksville to six hits. First baseman Charlie Boyd paced Victoria at the plate with two home runs and a single while Donahue and Bernie Anderson added homers.

Garner, making his first start of the season, was treated roughly as he was touched for six runs and four hits before being relieved by southpaw Lowell Hodges.

Catcher Rocky Harford smashed a home run for Farmers and Pete Ash had a double and single. Pete Caljouw hit a homer and single and Ron Gray had a double and two singles for the Loggers.

Coming Or Going?

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dick Kryhoski, Oriole first baseman, had a big day for himself Sunday against Philadelphia Athletics.

A rifle-shot single off the glove of an A's pitcher drove in the run that gave Baltimore a 4-3 win in the 11th inning of the first game of a doubleheader. The Blind Bear walloped a line drive in the ninth to win the nightcap, 3-2.

"Gee, I'm so excited I can hardly put my clothes on," Kryhoski said later in the dressing room.

He pulled on his trousers. They were on backward.

Important Notice to all SHORN SHEEP:

Our ovine friends will be glad to know that in future they may be spared the undignified and chilly experience of being sheared of their wool to keep us warm. A new lightweight lining material for men's and women's clothes combines fabric and aluminum to give more than three times the insulating value of a similar weight of wool cloth.

Humans, too, will be glad if this hastens the end of heavy, bulky winter wear. The material can be dry-cleaned, drapes well and is sufficiently porous to let the body "breathe" . . . Just one more example of the way Canadian manufacturers are combining aluminum and imagination for better, easier living. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

"We're certainly grateful to the friend who suggested that we re-finance our car at Trans Canada Credit. They're really helpful there. A courteous adviser quickly arranged a new loan to pay off the old one—and smaller payments were stretched over a 24-month period. All he asked for was proof of ownership—no endorsers were required, and we found the rates quite reasonable.

"I'd certainly recommend Trans Canada Credit to anyone who wants to re-finance his car at lower payments, over a longer period of time."

If car payments are proving too much for your budget—arrange your re-financing at Trans Canada Credit, now. Just telephone 2-9178, or call in at 618-A Fort Street.

Strike Hits Playgrounds

Some 2,000 Victoria children daily may be deprived of organized athletic activities because their playgrounds cannot open until the outside workers' strike is settled.

The announcement was made by Gordon Hartley, city playgrounds supervisor, last night.

"We cannot cross the picket lines with playground equipment," he said. "The equipment is owned and under the custody of the outside workers."

However Mr. Hartley explained that if the strike were settled in the next 24 hours, playgrounds could open as scheduled June 30.

"If we open Wednesday," he said, "swimming classes will go on as planned at 9 a.m. Friday for the girls. The boys will follow on the following Tuesday at the same time."

Scheduled playground times before the strike intervened were: Beacon Hill and Central, 9.30 to 5 p.m. daily; Oakland, Hollywood Rest and James Bay, 1.30 to 5 p.m., daily.

First Step Taken On Hospital Plan

First definite step toward an addition to the Royal Jubilee Hospital to cost approximately $1,000,000 was taken last night.

Victoria Saanich, Oak Bay municipal councils and Esquimalt ratepayers may take a final vote on a bylaw to be asked in December to approve a referendum to provide funds for a proposed 125-bed addition to the hospital.

Reeve A. C. Wurtele told Esquimalt council that the hospital board has proposed a tentative plan for the municipality to pay 9.7 per cent of the total cost and indicated a similar vote would be sought in the other areas.

The reeve said Esquimalt's share would be $31 000 or 9.7 per cent of the total. He proposed a ratepayers meeting in the fall to discuss this and other municipal affairs.

However Cr. James Bryant opposed action until Esquimalt learns the attitudes of other municipalities and Clr. G. F. Drummond insisted that the hospital board pay for all property.

Action was deferred pending a possible meeting between council and hospital board.

Item was deferred to Oct. 18 on an application from Saanich, Oak Bay municipal councils and Esquimalt ratepayers may take a final vote on a

HAYNES In loving memory of a dear wife Gertie de Flon who passed away June 29 1951

Lasting love I'll with memories give
While life remains I'll think of you
We lost the years the spent with you
On earth to rest a while
Sleep on in the Book of Ages
And wake in Heaven's smile
Till we meet again dear mate
Forever remembered by her husband
Jim.

Former SS Troops Barred from Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Immigration Minister Harris said today that former members of Adolf Hitler's SS troops are not wanted in Canada as immigrants.

Because he has not been able to check the records of the Soviet Union, Mr. Harris said, he cannot say whether any former SS troops have applied to enter Canada. But if any have, they will be refused admission.

Mr. Harris's statement was made in the House of Commons during debate on the estimates of his department.

He said he does not mean that all Germans are barred from Canada. Germans who are otherwise acceptable as immigrants will be admitted.

Mr. Harris was replying to A. H. Hollingworth (L—Lanark) and Arnold Peters (CCF—Timiskaming), who asked whether SS troops would be admitted to Canada.

Mr. Hollingworth said a Canadian soldier goes on guard duty in Germany and finds a German soldier entering a restricted area. He challenges the soldier, who is armed and opened fire, and he is charged for the offence.

Mr. Hollingworth suggested that the Canadian soldier should be given a German ballot to vote on whether he should remain in Germany.

Mr. Peters said there are 150,000 Jews in Canada and many of them have relatives in Germany.

"I can show you letters from people in Canada who have applied to bring relatives here and are told they will not get a visa because they have been members of the SS troops," he said.

Mr. Harris said: "I am getting letters from Canadians asking me to admit relatives who were members of the SS troops. I have had reports that some were in Canada and the names of others. That was possible. He recognized that immigration of former enemies could be deceptive.

There was a time during the Second World War when thousands of enemies, some of the Germans were conscripted into the armed forces. If the chaos after the war a person in the immigration department could not decide whether he served as a member of the SS troops or as a member of the regular army

Cabinet Will See Any Delegation, Premier Declares

Premier W. A. C. Bennett ... every person has the right ... to appeal to the cabinet ... he said.

Earlier the premier met R. K. Gervin, vice-president of the Trades and Labor Congress, who was attempting to smooth the way for meetings with representatives of the BC Government Employees Association.

The issue boiled up last week when Carl Hauck, president of the employees group, said some branches of the organization were talking of striking because of the cabinet's refusal to hear long-standing grievances.

Premier Bennett was quoted in a Vancouver newspaper as saying the practice of cabinet sub-committee meeting association delegates on grievances would be discontinued because some members of the group were "playing politics".

The premier said yesterday that he had been misquoted.

He did say, however, that there would be no change in the present policy.

"The machinery set up under the Civil Service Act and the government will follow that system," he said. No one ... denied a hearing by the cabinet.

RETURN TO OLD WAY

Some observers believe what Mr. Bennett wants is to return to the former system where all wage and ... grievances ... to satisfaction ... gained at the earliest stages ... department head did not ... Civil Service Commission. But the arrival ... group on appeal to the cabinet.

Association officials say that the cabinet has refused to see delegates on certain grievances since January, 1953, when they met a cabinet civil service sub-committee.

Results of yesterday's meeting between Mr. Gervin and the premier were not disclosed. A. E. Bennett, assistant general secretary of the employees association, told the Colonist a statement would be issued by the executive after a meeting in Vancouver Friday to discuss Mr. Gervin's report.

Nearly 20,000 persons paid a shilling a head admission to the hall here during the week to watch the piano pounder.

Racial Murder Within Soviet Told at Probe

MUNCH, Germany (AP)—A former Russian secret police commander told in chilling detail Monday how he helped betray and deport a million of Stalin's subjects because they wanted independence from the Kremlin.

Lieut.-Col. Grigori Stepanovich Burlitski, 36, emerged into the glare of television floodlights to tell of racial murder in the Soviet Union. He deserted to the West last June but it was kept secret until he testified Monday before a U.S. congressional committee on Communist aggression, now in session here.

WHISKED AWAY

As the tiny, blue-eyed Cossack left the crowded committee room for the lunch recess, Chairman Charles J. Kersten (Rep., Wis.) told everyone to remain seated for one minute. This was to allow guards to whisk Burlitski safely away.

Speaking through an interpreter, Burlitski described how rebellious non-Russian peoples like the Cecheno-Ingush mountain people in the Caucasus and the Tartars of the Crimea were trapped by Soviet security forces in merciless "trojan-horse" operations.

MILLION FOOLED

He told how a million people were fooled into believing Soviet overtures of friendship so that they dropped their guard. Then they found themselves herded into cattle cars for deportation to the wastes of Siberia under the guns of men they had been entertaining as guests.

Burlitski said the Kremlin would not tolerate any independence movements so simply wiped out whole regions, leaving the land silent and deserted until new settlers could be found.

Burlitski said the Kremlin during the Second World War wiped out the tiny autonomous state of Cecheno-Ingush in the Caucasus.

Archduke Slain 40 Years Ago

Service Held for Assassin Who Triggered War

SARAJEVO, Yugoslavia (AP)—Inexplicably, the big open touring car stopped amid hundreds of spectators. A shot rang out and a large, bemedalled man in the rear seat pitched forward, mortally wounded.

While the crowd gasped in horror, a pistol barked again. This time a beautiful white-[illegible] rolled from the seat.

Fifteen minutes after the Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the Austro-Hungarian throne, and his wife, the Countess Sophie Shotek, were dead.

The double assassination, 40 years ago Monday, triggered the first of the two great wars of the 20th century.

SERVICE HELD

As on every anniversary the people of this ancient Bosnian city held a service of remembrance, not for the royal couple that died, but for the assassin, a student named Gavrilo Princip.

Princip, 20 years old when he fired the fatal shot, touched off a disastrous four-year war. But in Bosnian eyes he also accomplished his purpose—freedom from Austro-Hungarian rule. Yugoslavia became a united nation at the end of the

NABBED ON SPOT

Princip was arrested on the spot on one of Sarajevo's main streets. Later, 24 co-conspirators were rounded up and jailed. They had plotted the archduke's assassination to call world attention to what they considered Austro-Hungarian tyranny.

The empire accused the little neighboring kingdom of Serbia of backing the plot, and a month after the assassination attacked the country.

The First World War began.

Of the 25 youths arrested in the conspiracy, three were acquitted and three were sentenced to death and hanged; died in an Austrian prison as a result of torture; reached his 21st birthday. He lenced to death and hanged; died in an Austrian prison as The others, including Princip, did many of his fellow conwere sentenced to jail terms spirators. Three are alive and ranging from 10 years to life, free.

PROMPT CITY ACTION COULD END WALKOUT

Leaders Show Unity

Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and President Eisenhower, shown at their meetings in Washington, will issue a detailed statement today on decisions reached in their highest-level efforts to mend tattered diplomacy between the chief nations of the English-speaking world. In a joint statement yesterday, they said they would "press forward with plans for collective defense" in Asia.—(International Soundphoto.)

Churchill Asks 'Real Good Try' With Russians

WASHINGTON (CP)—An "unbreakable unity of the English-speaking peoples is essential to the preservation of peace," Sir Winston Churchill declared here Monday.

He indicated to a wildly applauding luncheon audience that he believes that unity exisits and will continue to exist.

The British prime minister, nearing the end of his talks with President Eisenhower, emphasized the necessity of "a real good try" to achieve peaceful co-existence with the Communist world.

The alternative was a terror that would "baffle the imagination," he said. He added that if conflict came it would leave the western world victorious but "victorious on a heap of ruins."

Earlier Churchill and President Eisenhower released a joint statement indicating their agreement to lay plans for course of action in Southeast Asia if the current efforts of the French government should fail to make peace in Indo-China.

In a joint statement the two leaders said they would "press forward with plans for collective defense" in Asia.

Churchill was asked at the press luncheon if that meant immediate action or action after the French government has succeeded or failed to make peace.

"Now, immediately," he replied. They will plan for either eventuality. The two leaders will meet again today and issue a more detailed statement.

Churchill made it plain, in keeping with previous policy, that Britain will decline to join any formal alliance until French Premier Pierre Mendes-France ends his present armistice talks with Communist representatives.

He also made it clear he still favors a Big Three meeting with Russia's Prime Minister Malenkov. But, he cautioned: "To meet without good occasion, without some hope of definite amelioration of the world situation, might worsen and sharpen tensions."

CHURCHILL OF OLD

It was a triumph for Churchill. He was like the Churchill of the wartime meetings in Quebec and here. His voice was clear and powerful. He was brimming with good humor and wit. He was visibly touched by the standing ovations which greeted him and bade him farewell.

From the luncheon Churchill went with Foreign Secretary Eden to the British embassy, where they were guests of Ambassador Sir Roger Makins until they left by air for Ottawa Monday afternoon.

PARIS (Reuters) — French Premier Pierre Mendes-France Monday night greeted the Eisenhower-Churchill conference communique from Washington with "much satisfaction."

The communique also was greeted with enthusiasm in several other European capitals but was expected to chafe further an already impatient West Germany.

On 'Go Slow' Policy

Churchill Victory in U.S. Seen by London Papers

LONDON (AP)—All but one of London's morning newspapers told their readers Monday that Prime Minister Churchill is winning U.S. approval for Britain's go-slow policy in Southeast Asia.

The Times, in its account of the Washington talks, said that "even now agreement seems no nearer."

But headlines in other morning papers left a different impression. The Daily Mirror said: "Churchill and Eden putting the brake on Ike."

NO RUSH

The Mirror's Washington correspondent said flatly:

"There will be no rush into united action in Southeast Asia and there will be no immediate Southeast Asia alliance of the Western powers—on the lines of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, NATO—as America wished . . .

"The Anglo-American policy in Southeast Asia now will be 'wait and see'—but at the same time both governments will maintain a state of 'vigilant preparedness'."

CHURCHILL PRAISED

The Daily Sketch carried a similar story under this headline: "Winston does it! Ike agrees with his plan."

"Churchill firm with Ike. No yielding on East," said The Daily Herald.

The Communist Daily Worker headline: "U.S. bows to Churchill on Far East."

The News Chronicle said: "On Germany agreement is certain. On Asia, views are tending to converge and agreement is within sight."

Planes Attack Capital

Rebels Demanding Junta's Surrender

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Rebel leader Col. Carlos Castillo Armas Monday night demanded the "unconditional surrender" of the new military junta ruling Guatemala, and rebel planes lashed out with their first attack on the capital since the new regime took over.

In a manifesto issued from his provisional capital at Chiquimula, the anti-Communist leader said leftist president Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's resignation Sunday night was simply a "desperate manoeuvre."

The action of Col. Carlos Diaz and a military junta in taking over the government and in outlawing the Communist party, he added, had changed nothing in the party leadership and the party line.

"We will accept nothing short of unconditional surrender despite the changes," he declared.

NOT PLEASED

Although the rebels had called for a military junta to oust Arbenz and his regime and then negotiate a truce with Castillo Armas' newly-proclaimed provisional government, it was evident the rebels were not pleased with the turn of events in the capital.

The rebels feared that after cracking down on the Communists, Diaz would try to retain power himself, thus pulling the props out from under the campaign which Castillo Armas has waged largely on an anti-Communist basis.

First reports quoted the Guatemalan government radio as saying 12 planes bombarded the capital less than 24 hours after Colonel Diaz and the junta had replaced Arbenz.

Arbenz was reported flying to exile in Argentina.

Other listeners to the Guatemalan broadcast, however, understood that only one or two planes attacked with bombs and machine-guns.

Union Asks Arbitration

Mayor Reported Blocking Immediate Return to Work

BY LAWRIE JOSLIN

Swift and decisive action by city council could end the 12-day-old tie-up of essential civic services within a matter of hours.

City officials were notified yesterday by union officers that striking outside workers are ready to return to work immediately and settle their wage dispute with city council by arbitration under the Labor Relations Act.

The mayor is understood to have blocked immediate action along these lines by proposing instead that arbitration be conducted under the Arbitration Act.

Only council can remedy the situation now and an emergency session is expected today or tomorrow.

SET TERMS

The union membership voted Sunday night to return to work immediately council agrees to put the wage dispute to arbitration under the Labor Relations Act. The vote came after a special meeting of council on Friday asked the union to agree to arbitration.

Union officers met City Manager Cecil Wyatt for about an hour yesterday morning before going in for a session with the mayor which lasted about 90 minutes.

It was apparently during the second meeting that the obstacle was put in the way of an immediate end to the tie-up.

LABOR MATTER

The union is prepared to have the dispute arbitrated by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks or someone appointed by him.

It wants any award of the arbitration incorporated into a new collective agreement for this year and made effective within 30 days of the date that it is handed down.

The union asks that both parties agree in advance to make any award of an arbitrator binding on council and the union.

The union formally advised the city yesterday by letter of the decision of its members.

The letter said that if council agrees to the union proposal on arbitration, the outside workers will go back to work immediately.

The union has asked council for permission to send two representatives to the council meeting dealing with the arbitration issue.

Council was not specific about its arbitration proposal when it met Friday. It simply asked the union to agree to arbitration which would be binding on both sides and nothing was said about what statute was to be used.

The Labor Relations Act empowers the labor minister to appoint inquiry commissions to settle disputes. The same provisions were contained in the old Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act and were used on previous occasions when there appeared to be no other means of settling a strike.

ALL DISPUTES

The Arbitration Act is more formal in its provisions and is designed to settle all classes of disputes, not necessarily labor disputes.

Union officials have said they have complied with all provisions of the old labor code and the new Labor Relations Act since their dispute with the city started. They prefer to see the dispute settled with the machinery available in the labor code, since it is purely a labor matter and the union a labor body certified under the labor code.

'B.C. Is in the Oil Business!' Pleased Premier Announces

Discovery of the first commercial oil in British Columbia, 45 miles northwest of Fort St. John in the Peace River area, was announced yesterday.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett informed the press of the history-making strike a few minutes after he received a phone call from George McMahon of Calgary, head of Pacific Petroleums.

"B.C. is in the oil business," the premier said, obviously pleased with the news which may help to offset the disappointment B.C. felt at rejection of an application to pipe Peace River gas to the U.S.

"That's what we wanted," he said. "The government hopes it will prove to be a major field."

Contact was made at Pacific West Buick Creek No. 3, a Pacific Petroleum well. The discovery was made in the oil-bearing Nikanassin sands formation, reported to be about 28 feet through.

The premier was told that the oil is of a good quality, with a gravity of 35-37.

The find may be a boon to the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway which plans to build a $50,000,000 extension to Fort St. John.

Nehru, Chou Cite Five Principles

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The prime ministers of India and Communist China Monday recommended adoption of five priniciples in international affairs as "a solid foundation for peace and security."

They said they hope to see these principles used in particular to bring a political settlement in Indo-China creating "free democratic, unified and independent states which should not be used for aggressive purposes or be subjected to foreign intervention."

The five principles are:

Mutual respect for territorial integrity and sovereignty, non-aggression, non-interference in each other's internal affairs, equality and mutual benefit, and peaceful co-existence.

These principles originally formed the preamble of the Chinese-Indian treaty on Tibet signed in April this year.

Mutual support for the principles formed the basis of a communique issued here soon after Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China left for Rangoon at the end of three-day talks with Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India. In Rangoon Chou will talk with Premier U Nu of Burma.

Some observers here expect a series of non-aggression pacts between Asian countries.

For Youngsters at Elk Lake

Deadline Fast Draws Near For Free Swimming Classes

There are only two days left for children to be entered in The Daily Colonist swimming classes which begin at Elk Lake next Monday.

The application coupon appears on this page today and will appear again tomorrow. Applications mailed later than Wednesday will not be accepted because classes have to be made up Friday morning, immediately after the July 1 holiday.

The swimming classes are open to children between the ages of eight and 14. They are free, but there is a transportation charge of $2.50 for youngsters unable to provide their own transportation to Elk Lake. The $2.50 covers one trip a week for eight weeks from the Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot to the lake and return.

400 LAST YEAR

Instructor for the Colonist's swimming classes is Mrs. Marjorie Naysmith, who teaches for Archie McKinnon at the YMCA and for the Greater Victoria School Board. Under her guidance and the supervision of a lifeguard, each child will receive eight lessons—one a week until the end of August.

Last year, in the same classes, Mrs. Naysmith taught 400 children to swim.

Each child registering will be assigned a class to be held at specified time on the same day each week. A complete list of all the classes, their age groups, sex, and the name of the child assigned to them, will be printed in the Colonist Sunday.

It will be necessary for parents to consult list to find what class their child is in, and instructions as to the time he or she should report either at the coach lines depot or at the lake.

The purpose of the swimming classes is to teach children to swim as early as possible in life.

"There is an appalling number of drownings every summer," said Seth Halton, publisher of the Colonist. "We believe, as do the schools now, the Red Cross, the YMCA and others, that if all children could be taught to swim the drownings would be greatly reduced.

CHANCE FOR RESCUE

"Last year," he said, "Mrs. Naysmith taught 400. They couldn't be called first-class swimmers by the time they'd finished the course, but at least, in the event of accident, they could swim around long enough for rescuers to have a chance."

The application form appears below.

Alpinists on Wrong Track

No Buttle Change, Chairman Claims

British Columbia Power Commission Chairman T. H. Crosby yesterday denied a report that the commission had abandoned the Buttle Lake project.

A report from Duncan said a party of alpinists hiking in the vicinity found that the government had abandoned Buttle and instead would dam Upper Campbell and join the two together as one storage basin.

Mr. Crosby said the review of the whole situation was still proceeding. The survey below Upper Campbell was reported in the Colonist six weeks ago.

The Duncan party said residents of the area of Upper Campbell had been given notice to vacate and showed stakes defining the new dam site to the party surveyors.

NEW SURVEY

Power commission officials admitted some weeks ago that the new survey was taking place with a view to a possible new generating plant below Upper Campbell. They did not deny at the time that the Buttle project might be abandoned or, at any rate, changed considerably.

Tremendous upsurge in power needs on the Island has forced the commission to consider new power sources and might mean a possible change in plans.

Mr. Crosby said an announcement on what the plans will be can be expected in about a month.

Action by City Council Could End Strike at Once

Arbitration Agreed But Mayor Hedges

Writer Wins $175,000 Suit

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal court jury awarded author Quentin Reynolds $175,000 damages in his libel suit against newspaper columnist Westbrook Pegler and two Hearst corporations.

The decision came early Monday after the jury had deliberated more than 10 hours. Although the amount was well below the $500,000 which Reynolds had sought, it was believed to be one of the largest—and possibly the largest—libel award ever made in the United States. (See earlier story, page 3.)

Debt-Ridden Miner Uses Gas

Pay Packet of Penny Brings Death to Five

CANTERBURY, England (CP)—A debt-ridden coal miner murdered his wife and three children and then killed himself after he was given his pay envelope—which contained one penny—an inquest learned Monday.

The bodies of Frederick Richardson, 40, his wife, Violet, 29, and his children, David, 10, Anne, 7, and Joan, 6, all dead of gas poisoning, were found by police who broke in Friday night.

In the house they found the pay envelope, the coroner said Monday, which showed a total salary of $3.61. Deductions left only the penny.

The envelope was for a week in which Richardson had worked only one day and received one-sixth of his normal weekly pay of $21.70. Deducted from this was a bill owned to the coal mine canteen, payment for a pair of boots, and the miner's regular payment to the national medical service.

The miner wrote that he had been given until the next day to raise $100. He added that he had taken the children's lives so they should not be left with the stigma of being a suicide's children.

Another letter said: "Please put the cat and dog to sleep, too. I found them awkward."

Deadline Fast Draws Near For Free Swimming Classes

There are only two days left for children to be entered in The Daily Colonist swimming classes which begin at Elk Lake next Monday.

The application coupon appears on this page today and will appear again tomorrow. Applications mailed later than Wednesday will not be accepted because classes have to be made up Friday morning, immediately after the July 1 holiday.

The swimming classes are open to children between the ages of eight and 14. They are free, but there is a transportation charge of $2.50 for youngsters unable to provide their own transportation to Elk Lake. The $2.50 covers one trip a week for eight weeks from the Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot to the lake and return.

400 LAST YEAR

Instructor for the Colonist's swimming classes is Mrs. Marjorie Naysmith, who teaches for Archie McKinnon at the YMCA and for the Greater Victoria School Board. Under her guidance and the supervision of a lifeguard, each child will receive eight lessons—one a week until the end of August.

Last year, in the same classes, Mrs. Naysmith taught 400 children to swim.

Each child registering will be assigned a class to be held at specified time on the same day each week. A complete list of all the classes, their age groups, sex, and the name of the child assigned to them, will be printed in the Colonist Sunday.

It will be necessary for parents to consult list to find what class their child is in, and instructions as to the time he or she should report either at the coach lines depot or at the lake.

The purpose of the swimming classes is to teach children to swim as early as possible in life.

"There is an appalling number of drownings every summer," said Seth Halton, publisher of the Colonist. "We believe, as do the schools now, the Red Cross, the YMCA and others, that if all children could be taught to swim the drownings would be greatly reduced.

Churchill Asks 'Real Good Try' With Russians

WASHINGTON (CP)—An "unbreakable unity of the English-speaking peoples is essential to the preservation of peace," Sir Winston Churchill declared here Monday.

He indicated to a wildly applauding luncheon audience that he believes that unity exists and will continue to exist.

The British prime minister, nearing the end of his talks with President Eisenhower, emphasized the necessity of "a real good try" to achieve peaceful co-existence with the Communist world.

The alternative was a terror that would "baffle the imagination," he said. He added that if conflict came it would leave the western world victorious but "victorious on a heap of ruins."

Earlier Churchill and President Eisenhower released a joint statement indicating their agreement to lay plans for course of action in Southeast Asia if the current efforts of the French government should fail to make peace in Indo-China.

In a joint statement the two leaders said they would "press forward with plans for collective defense" in Asia.

Churchill was asked at the press luncheon if that meant immediate action or action after the French government has succeeded or failed to make peace.

"Now, immediately," he replied. They will plan for either eventuality. The two leaders will meet again today and issue a more detailed statement.

Churchill made it plain in keeping with previous policy, that Britain will decline to join any formal alliance until French Premier Pierre Mendes-France ends his present armistice talks with Communist representatives.

He also made it clear he still favors a Big Three meeting with Russia's Prime Minister Malenkov. But, he cautioned: "To meet without good occasion, without some hope of definite amelioration of the world situation, might worsen and sharpen tensions."

CHURCHILL OF OLD

It was a triumph for Churchill. He was like the Churchill of the wartime meetings in Quebec and here. His voice was clear and powerful. He was brimming with good humor and wit. He was visibly touched by the standing ovations which greeted him and bade him farewell.

From the luncheon Churchill went with Foreign Secretary Eden to the British embassy, where they were guests of Ambassador Sir Roger Makins until they left by air for Ottawa Monday afternoon.

Leaders Show Unity

Prime Minister Sir Winston Churchill and President Eisenhower, shown at their meetings in Washington, will issue a detailed statement today on decisions reached in their highest-level efforts to mend tattered diplomacy between the chief nations of the English-speaking world. Action by City Council Could End Strike at Once

Arbitration Agreed But Mayor Hedges

BY LAWRIE JOSLIN

Swift and decisive action by city council could end the 12-day-old tie-up of essential civic services within a matter of hours.

City officials were notified yesterday by union officers that striking outside workers are ready to return to work immediately and settle their wage dispute with city council by arbitration under the Labor Relations Act.

The mayor is understood to have blocked immediate action along these lines by proposing instead that arbitration be conducted under the Arbitration Act.

Only council can remedy the situation now and an emergency session is expected today or tomorrow.

SET TERMS

The union membership voted Sunday night to return to work immediately council agrees to put the wage dispute to arbitration under the Labor Relations Act. The vote came after a special meeting of council on Friday asked the union to agree to arbitration.

Union officers met City Manager Cecil Wyatt for about an hour yesterday morning before going in for a session with the mayor which lasted about 90 minutes.

It was apparently during the second meeting that the obstacle was put in the way of an immediate end to the tie-up.

LABOR MATTER

The union is prepared to have the dispute arbitrated by Labor Minister Lyle Wicks or someone appointed by him.

It wants any award of the arbitration incorporated into a new collective agreement for this year and made effective within 30 days of the date that it is handed down.

The union asks that both parties agree in advance to make any award of an arbitrator binding on council and the union.

The union formally advised the city yesterday by letter of the decision of its members.

The letter said that if council agrees to the union proposal on arbitration, the outside workers will go back to work immediately.

ASK TO ATTEND

The union has asked council for permission to send two representatives to the council meeting dealing with the arbitration issue.

Council was not specific about its arbitration proposal when it met Friday. It simply asked the union to agree to arbitration which would be binding on both sides and nothing was said about what statute was to be used.

The Labor Relations Act empowers the labor minister to appoint inquiry commissions to settle disputes. The same provisions were contained in the old Industrial Conciliation and Arbitration Act and were used on previous occasions when there appeared to be no other means of settling a strike.

ALL DISPUTES

The Arbitration Act is more formal in its provisions and is designed to settle all classes of disputes, not only labor disputes.

Union officials have said they have complied with all provisions of the old labor code and the new Labor Relations Act since their dispute with the city started. They prefer to see the dispute settled with the machinery available in the labor code, since it is purely a labor matter and the union a labor body certified under the labor code.

Earns His Medal

Rex doesn't like to swim very much and when he was out in a boat with Billie Burke, above, and his owner, Carole Farmer, he couldn't be enticed into the water. Then Billie suffered a cramp and screamed for help. Rex quickly forgot his aversion to water, jumped in and pulled her to the boat. He was bought as a pup by Carole for $2. Young Cyclist Killed

FULFORD HARBOR—Twelve-year-old cyclist George Baffett was instantly killed at 11 a.m. yesterday when he collided with a gravel truck on Salt Spring Island's Fulford-Ganges highway.

RCMP said the youngster was following a road grader when he swung out and met the truck, driven by Vern Schneider of Sidney.

George was living at Fulford Harbor with his mother and step-father, Ronald Lee.

Planes Attack Capital

Rebels Demanding Junta's Surrender

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP)—Rebel leader Col. Carlos Castillo Armas Monday night demanded the "unconditional surrender" of the new military junta ruling Guatemala, and rebel planes lashed out with their first attack on the capital since the new regime took over.

In a manifesto issued from his provisional capital at Chiquimula, the anti-Communist leader said leftist president Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's resignation Sunday night was simply a "desperate manoeuvre."

The action of Col. Carlos Diaz and a military junta in taking over the government and in outlawing the Communist party, he added, had changed nothing in the party leadership and the party line.

"We will accept nothing short of unconditional surrender despite the changes," he declared.

NOT PLEASED

Although the rebels had called for a military junta to oust Arbenz and his regime and then negotiate a truce with Castillo Armas' newly-proclaimed provisional government, it was evident the rebels were not pleased with the turn of events in the capital.

The rebels feared that after cracking down on the Communists, Diaz would try to retain power himself, thus pulling the props out from under the campaign which Castillo Armas has waged largely on an anti-Communist basis.

JACOBO ARBENZ GUZMAN

First reports quoted the Guatemalan government radio as saying 12 planes bombarded the capital less than 24 hours after Colonel Diaz and the junta had replaced Arbenz.

Arbenz was reported flying to exile in Argentina.

Other listeners to the Guatemalan broadcast, however, understood that only one or two planes attacked with bombs and machine-guns.

Flood Kills Eight

DEL RIO, Tex. (AP)—The Rio Grande gorged itself on a foot of rain and thundered seaward Monday in its greatest flood in history.

Eight people were reported dead at inundated Ozona in the north ranch country.

The Rio Grande flood itself was not expected to take any lives, because river-wise dwellers knew what was coming and got to high ground. The Mexican town of Ciudad Acuna across from Del Rio was evacuated safely.

PASSENGERS SAFE

Rescue helicopters shuttled the 60 miles from Langtry to Del Rio, bringing out the last of 286 passengers of Southern Pacific's Sunset Limited stranded Sunday by track washouts.

Fourteen helicopters brought them to Del Rio where they continued by train to their destinations.

The weather bureau at Brownsville said there is nothing on the records to compare with this flood—and the only comparison forecasters could make would be with legends about a great flood in 1835.

Liquor Polls Open

Eighteen polling centres will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. today as Saanich and Central Saanich voters decide whether their municipalities will become "wet."

Each is a separate licensing area. The ratepayers will vote on accepting or rejecting public house licenses, dining room licenses for beer, ale, stout and wine with meals; dining lounge licenses (cabarets and clubs); and lounge licenses (cocktail bars).

French Pleased

PARIS (Reuters) — French Premier Pierre Mendes-France Monday night greeted the Eisenhower-Churchill conference communique from Washington with "much satisfaction."

The communique also was greeted with enthusiasm in several other European capitals but was expected to chafe further an already impatient West Germany.

On 'Go Slow' Policy

Churchill Victory in U.S. Seen by London Papers

LONDON (AP)—All but one of London's morning newspapers told their readers Monday that Prime Minister Churchill is winning U.S. approval for Britain's go-slow policy in Southeast Asia.

The Times, in its account of the Washington talks, said that "even now agreement seems no nearer."

But headlines in other morning papers left a different impression. The Daily Mirror said: "Churchill and Eden putting the brake on Ike."

NO RUSH

The Mirror's Washington correspondent said flatly:

"There will be no rush into united action in Southeast Asia and there will be no immediate Southeast Asia alliance of the Western powers—on the lines of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, NATO—as America wished . . .

"The Anglo-American policy in Southeast Asia now will be 'wait and see'—but at the same time both governments will maintain a state of 'vigilant preparedness'."

CHURCHILL PRAISED

The Daily Sketch carried a similar story under this headline: "Winston does it! Ike agrees with his plan."

"Churchill firm with Ike. No yielding on East," said The Daily Herald.

The Communist Daily Worker headline: "U.S. bows to Churchill on Far East."

The News Chronicle said: "On Germany agreement is certain. On Asia, views are tending to converge and agreement is within sight."

Debt-Ridden Miner Uses Gas

Pay Packet of Penny Brings Death to Five

CANTERBURY, England (CP)—A debt-ridden coal miner murdered his wife and three children and then killed himself after he was given his pay envelope—which contained one penny—an inquest learned Monday.

The bodies of Frederick Richardson, 40, his wife, Violet, 29, and his children, David, 10, Anne, 7, and Joan, 6, all dead of gas poisoning, were found by police who broke in Friday night.

In the house they found the pay envelope, the coroner said Monday, which showed a total salary of $3.61. Deductions left only the penny.

The envelope was for a week in which Richardson had worked only one day and received one-sixth of his normal weekly pay of $21.70. Deducted from this was a bill owned to the coal mine canteen, payment for a pair of boots, and the miner's regular payment to the national medical service.

The miner wrote that he had been given until the next day to raise $100. He added that he had taken the childfen's lives so they should not be left with the stigma of being a suicide's children.

Another letter said: "Please put the cat and dog to sleep, too. I found them awkward."

Writer Wins $175,000 Suit

NEW YORK (AP)—A federal court jury awarded author Quentin Reynolds $175,000 damages in his libel suit against newspaper columnist Westbrook Pegler and two Hearst corporations.

The decision came early Monday after the jury had deliberated more than 10 hours. Although the amount was well below the $500,000 which Reynolds had sought, it was believed to be one of the largest—and possibly the largest—libel award ever made in the United States.

Alpinists on Wrong Track

No Buttle Change, Chairman Claims

British Columbia Power Commission Chairman T. H. Crosby yesterday denied a report that the commission had abandoned the Buttle Lake project.

A report from Duncan said a party of alpinists hiking in the vicinity found that the government had abandoned Buttle and instead would dam Upper Campbell and join the two together as one storage basin.

Mr. Crosby said the review of the whole situation was still proceeding. The survey below Upper Campbell was reported in the Colonist six weeks ago.

The Duncan party said residents of the area of Upper Campbell had been given notice to vacate and showed stakes defining the new dam site to the party surveyors.

NEW SURVEY

Power commission officials admitted some weeks ago that the new survey was taking place with a view to a possible new generating plant below Upper Campbell. They did not deny at the time that the Buttle project might be abandoned or, at any rate, changed considerably.

Tremendous upsurge in power needs on the Island has forced the commission to consider new power sources and might mean a possible change in plans.

Mr. Crosby said an announcement on what the plans will be can be expected in about a month.

Nehru, Chou Cite Five Principles

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—The prime ministers of India and Communist China Monday recommended adoption of five principles in international affairs as "a solid foundation for peace and security."

They said they hope to see these principles used in particular to bring a political settlement in Indo-China creating "free democratic, unified and independent states which should not be used for aggressive purposes or be subjected to foreign intervention."

The five principles are:

Mutual respect for territorial integrity and sovereignty, non-aggression, non-interference in each other's internal affairs, equality and mutual benefit, and peaceful co-existence.

These principles originally formed the preamble of the Chinese-Indian treaty on Tibet signed in April this year.

Mutual support for the principles formed the basis of a communique issued here soon after Premier Chou En-lai of Communist China left for Rangoon at the end of three-day talks with Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru of India. In Rangoon Chou will talk with Premier U Nu of Burma.

Some observers here expect a series of non-aggression pacts between Asian countries too. I found them awkward."

First Commercial Well Gushes

'B.C. Is in the Oil Business!' Pleased Premier Announces

Discovery of the first commercial oil in British Columbia, 45 miles northwest of Fort St. John in the Peace River area, was announced yesterday.

Premier W. A. C. Bennett informed the press of the history-making strike a few minutes after he received a phone call from George McMahon of Calgary, head of Pacific Petroleums.

"B.C. is in the oil business," the premier said, obviously pleased with the news which may help to offset the disappointment B.C. felt at rejection of an application to pipe Peace River gas to the U.S.

"That's what we wanted," he said. "The government hopes it will prove to be a major field."

Contact was made at Pacific West Buick Creek No. 3, a Pacific Petroleum well. The discovery was made in the oil-bearing Nikanassin sands formation, reported to be about 28 feet through.

The premier was told that the oil is of a good quality with a gravity of 35-37.

The find may be a boon to the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway which plans to build a $50,000,000 extension to Fort St. John.
